MENLO PARK RECORDER

A PAPER DEVOTED TO THE BEST INTERESTS OF MENLO PARK AND SAN MATEO COUNTY

VOLUME 9 — MENLO PARK, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1932 — No. 14

Dramatic Club Coach Sets Feb. 25 As Date Of High School's Show

William G. Sweeney, dramatic coach at the Menlo Junior College and alst year faculty advosir of the journalism class, has made an enviablie record both for himself and the school. Last year as head of the journalism class, the school produced one of the best newspapers on the coast under his direction. The dramatic classes under his able guidance are making the same success of their work that the journalistic department did last year.

WILLIAM G. SWEENEY

February 25 has been announced by Mr. William G. Sweeney, dramatic coach of El Roble Players, as the date of the club's presentation of "Thank You Doctor" and "Dwellers in the Darkness."

The first is a comedy of high caliber and should prove to be striking entertainment. Mr. A. Eason Monroe will direct the play.

"Dwellers in the Darkness" is a mystery thriller that will bring the chills up and down your spine. A fine dramatic sense together with the experienced direction of Mr. Sweeney and the wholehearted support of El Roble Players will tend to make the production a success.

Jazz Band To Play

A group of students under Jack Fidanque have offered their services in the way of a first class jazz band, to the Club. They will play before, after, and between the plays. This band has been practicing every night and are due to be in great shape.

Due to the wishes of those who want to enter, the organization has elected a tryout committee. All of those interested should see Mr. Sweeney.

REV. OFFENHISER WILL SPEAK HERE SUNDAY NITE

There will be a pulpit exchange between the pastor of the local Presbyterion Church and the Palo Alto Baptist church on Sunday evening, Janury 24. Rev. Paul Offenhiser of Palo Alto will have charge of the service in Menlo at 7:30 in the evening. He is also bringing a soloist who will present special music. Rev. W. L. Bone is to have charge of the service in the Baptist church, being requested to give a program of readings of original poems. Gene Bone is to be soloist in that service.

Body Of Drowned Palo Alto Youth Found Yesterday

After almost a month since his drowning in a yacht accident, the body of David Chapman, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Chapman of Palo Alto, was given up yesterday by the waters of San Francisco bay.

The discovery of the remains was made by accident about noon by Tony Mortensen and Harry Mills, members of the city dredger crew, about 200 yards east of the high tension tower line and near the mouth of Mayfield slough.

Mortensen and Mills, who were on their way in a smal boat to the "Cementer" to pick up life belts which had been thrown to Donald Hickard, employe of the Pacific Portland Cement Company, who fell into the water after being overcome with carbon monoxide fumes, had their curiosity whetted by the congregation of sea gulls a short distance awy, and, going to the spot, found the body of the drowned youth.

The remains were removed to the establishment of Roller and Hapgood and County Coroner of Santa Clara County Amos O. Williams was notified.

PALO ALTO MAN IS MISSING SIX WEEKS

Search is being made for George F. McCarthy, 60, missing from his home in Palo Alto since December 12, nearly six weeks ago. He lived in a small house at the rear of the home of Mrs. Thomas Warrior, who told police yesterday of his disapearance when reporting an attempt to burglarize the premises.

It is thought possible by Mrs. Warrior that McCarthy might have fallen victim to a heart attack to which he was subject.

He left home without giving any information as to where he was going, police learned. Everything in his house was left in good shape.

McCarthy was engaged in the insurance business.

Upon examination police found that an effort has been made during the night to enter the house formerly occupied by McCarthy. A window in the rear of the building was broken and the sill jimmied.

JOHN J. BARGER PASSES SUDDENLY AT N. FAIR OAKS

John Jess Barger, 65, a resident of this vicinity for the past 12 years, died unexpectedly at his residence on Fifth avenue, North Fair Oaks this week.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. C. Mildred Barger, and a step-son G. Erskine of Redwood City, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Lee Hewitt of Long Beach.

Barger was a member of Golden Gote Post, American Legion. During the war he was with the British forces in German East Africa.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Layng & Tinny Funeral Home at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

M & H Restaurant Now Under New Management

Ch. "Kupie" Khandanzian, formerly connected with the M & H Restaurant, but who has not been there for some months, purchased the entire interests of V. Alexander in the business and has taken over the management of the local eating house.

This is good news to all "Kupie's" many friends in Menlo Park, who have been waiting patiently for him to get back into the harness and to supply them with good dinners. "Kupie" is unusually popular with all of the residents of Menlo Park, as well as with the truck drivers who pass through the city at an early hour in the morning, in fact between the hour of 5:30 and 6:30 each morning it was almost impossible to get a seat in the restaurant. These men have been patiently waiting for him to return, and it is predicted that it will be but a few days before the business will be booming along as it did before he left.

"Kupie" always has a big smile for every one and is unusually well liked by all who patronized the M & H. In fact some people drive twenty or more miles on Sunday just to eat in his place of business. Many local residents are now wearing a broad smile over his return to the business circle of Menlo Park.

Auxiliary To Local Legion Being Formed

A woman's Auxiliary to the Menlo Park Post, No. 443, American Legion, is being organized. Wives, widows, mothers, sisters and daughters of men who served in the United States army between April, 1917, and November, 1918, are eligible for membership.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Perle James, district membership chairman will meet with all prospective members to fill out application blanks. Mrs. C. L. Dyer is the local organizer and further information may be obtained by calling her at 4664.

The American Legion Post and Auxiliary are an essential part of any community. They are interested in furthering Americanism, child education, social service and many other humanitarian objects. Those who believe in progress and who are eligible for membership are requested to put in their applications at once.

SAVING MADE IN MEALS AT THE COUNTY JAIL

Citizens interested in the Parkman governmental bill privisions requiring that the county purchasing agent buy the supplies and feed the prisoners at the county jail, learned that a saving of $1,620.80 was effected over the past 3 months.

Under the old system, the sheriff wa sllowed 25 cents per meal for each of the prisoners. The cost of this has been reduced to an averge of 7 cents per meal per prisoner, claims on file in the purchasing agent's office reveal.

In October, 1441 meals were served at an average of 8 3-5 cents, or a total cost of $210.65, and a saving of $400.60.

In November, 2834 meals were served at an average cost of 6 1-2 cents, or a total cost of $184.66 and a saving of $523.84.

In December, 3820 meals were served at an average cost of six and 7-10 cents, totaling $258,64, or a saving of $696.36.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES TO HOLD "BEAN SUPPER"

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will serve one of their famous "Bean Suppers" on next Wednesday evening, January 27, from 5:30 to 7 o'clock. Popular prices will prevail and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Rev. W. L. Bone is being called for "author-reading" programs in various churches just now, as follows: January 25, in the Episcopal Church, Palo Alto; January 28, in the Palo Alto M. E. church Student Club, and in the Ocean avenue Presbyterian church, San Francisco on February 5.

Calif. Commerce Chamber Studies Highway Projects

Major highway building projjects needed in San Mateo county to bring the state highway system up to the standard desired for maximum benefit were considered by the California State Chamber of Commerce's committee on highways in San Francisco yesterday.

Before them was the report of C. H. Purcell, state highway engineer, recommending the necessary projects. Oscar L. Willette presided as chairman of the Central Coast Regional Council committee's meeting.

The program necessary to complete the state highway system in San Mateo county is enumerated as follows:

(1) San Francisco to Colma, 1.8 miles. Improvement of this section by grading, paving and installtion of structures to provide a wide multi-lane highway.

(2) Baden to San Bruno, 2.3 miels. To be graded to 56 foot width, small structures and pavement to be 40 feet wide, with oil oil rock shoulders.

(3) San Mateo to Beresford, 1.74 miles. Grading to 56 foot width, small structures and pavement widened to 40 feet with oil rock shoulders.

(4) Beresford to Redwood City, 4.25 miles. Grading to 56 foot width, small structures, paving to 40 foot width and oil rock shoulders.

(5) Redwood City to southerly boundary, 3.46 miles. Grading to be 56 feet wide, including small structures, pavement to be 40 foot width, and old rock shoulders. This improvement provides in San Mateo county a minimum four lane pavement, and surfaced shoulders on a 56 foot graded roadbed.

The total improvement on route 2, San Francisco to San Diego covering 391.8 miles, will cost approximately $25,623,447.04.

Similar studies covering rout 55, that portion of the skyline boulevard, San Francisco to route 5 near Glenwood, which lies in San Mateo county; and on route 68, that portion of the Bayshore boulevard, San Francisco to San Jose, which lies in San Mateo county will be completed with the next 10 days and will be made public.

MENLO PARK POST OF AMERICAN LEGION MEETS

The first regular meeting of the newly organized Menlo Park Post No. 443, American Legion was held in the Masonic hall Wednesday evening under the direction of its commander, Phil Blanchard with all members present.

The following committees were appointed:

Membership committee: Frank Love, chairman; C. L. Dyer, T. H. White, Wm. Feeley, Jr., Charles Palmer, G. Luistrom and B. G. Larrecou.

Employment Committee: P. F. Blanchard, chairman; John Walrath, L. H. Cook and Arthur Paulman. This committee is to work in conjunction with the committee now functioning in Menlo Park.

MENLO PARLOR, N. D. G. W. FOOD SALE TOMORROW

Cakes, pies, rolls, salads and other tempting dishes will be sold by the members of Menlo Parlor, Native Daughters, tomorrow (Saturday) morning at nine o'clock in the Murray building near the Post office on Santa Cruz avenue.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to swell the Loyalty Fund of the organization. A large box of canned goods and groceries will be awarded to some lucky person at this sale.

Come and take away something from the Mystery Bag at the Parent Teacher's Whist Party to be held next Friday night at the Central school auditorium. A box of groceries will be given as a door prize. Many other valuable prizes will be given to those having highest scores. Score cards are twenty-five cents each. Refreshments will be ten cents extra.

Local Meat Market Adopts New Policy

"Pork chops are cheaper
"Beefsteak is cheaper
"Now's the time to fall in line."

These words mean far more to the housewives of Menlo Park than just a song over the radio.

They are in actual force in the Liddicoat Market on El Camino Real just north of Santa Cruz avenue. Just read the ad in another column of this paper and see what the new policy is.

The reason for all this is that Fred Salcedo, formerly manager of the Mayfield store is in charge now and has mde a lots of improvements in the store, the service and the quality of the meats offered for your eating enjoyment.

Mr. Salcedo wants you all to come in and get acquainted with him and it is an assured fact that you will like him and his service.

The market in the future will be conducted along the most approved business lines and everything that will make for the comfort and convenience of patrons, and for the betterment of the service rendered will be done by the new manager.

Moose Card Party At Redwood Next Week

A twenty-five dollar electric clock will be given as a door prize at the Moose card party to be held at the Forester's hall, Redwood City, on Wednesday night.

Many prizes have been secured including other electric clocks, grocery orders, meat orders, gasoline, motor oil,, etc. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. V. M. Walrath or Mrs. C. L. Dyer, or at the door on Wednesday night.

The next regular business meeting of the auxiliary, number 601, will be held Wednesday, Febrauary 3 in the Odd Fellows hall at Redwood city, and much of interest to the members will come up for discussion.

Many new members will be initiated soon, and those desiring to become members of the order may send thier applications to Mrs. Hazel Rice, Redwood City.

Many local women belong to the auxiliary to the Moose, and they are enthusiastic over the progress the organization is making.

EIGHTH DISTRIC MEETING OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

On Monday evening, January 25, the 8th District of the American Legion, comprising San Mateo County and San Francisco county, representing a total of 25 Legion Posts will hold a meeting in the auditorium of the Central Grammar School, Redwood City.

At that time many problems under consideration will be discussed. Among the more important are the adjusted compensation and national defense.

New Record Looms For Applications At Menlo School

Four Already In H. S.; Howard Says Report Is Encouraging

Prospects for a record mid-term registration were seen by Mrs. Lucille J. Armsby, registrar, with the announcement made yesterday that four junior college students have already been accepted by the admissions committee and the applications of several more will be acted upon as soon as their transcripts of high school records are received. In addition to these, three students have already entered the high school department, and one has enrolled in the junior college.

PRES. LOWRY S. HOWARD

The three new high school members are Ralph Keating of Atherton, Robert Owen of San Francisco and Stuart Nixon of Hanford. The college transfer is Raymond Jadarola of Merced.

Those who have been accepted in the junior college for the second semester are Jack McLean of Oakland, Louis S. Constine Jr., and Judson Somers of San Francisco and David B. Horsburgh of Stanford University. Horsburgh is re-enrolling at Menlo after a leave of absence.

President Lowry S. Howard, in commenting on the probable record registration list, said, "The reports are very encouraging. To have a large mid-year application list when business conditions are supposed to be depressed places Menlo School and Junior College in a good position."

The exact number of new students cannot be estimated by the registrar's office because several applicants do not finish their high school work until later this month.

SALESMAN ROBBED OF $300 BY TWO BANDITS

SAN BRUNO, Jan. 21—Kidnaped by two bandits, Olaf Helm, distributor for a San Francisco candy firm, was robbed of $300 in checks and money and his truck last night he reported to San Bruno police. Some time later the truck was found abandoned by police.

LIDDICOAT'S MARKET
MENLO PARK

THE MARKET TO BUY MORE MEATS FOR LESS MONEY

QUALITY MEATS AND SERVICE GOVERNMENT INSPECTED

WE DELIVER

Phone 21726

Under New Management

Watch the Papers for Saturday Specials in

ALL LIDDICOAT'S MARKETS

BETTER YET, COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF AT LIDDICOATS, MENLO PARK

After all is said and done
A good, home-cooked meal really hits the spot. We are happy to announce the

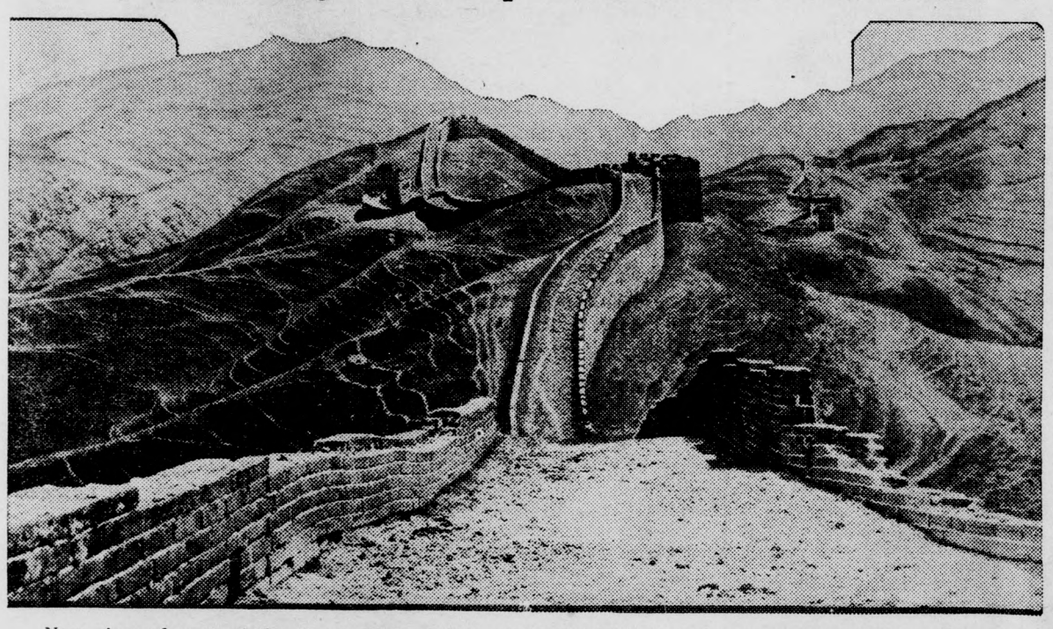

M&H RESTAURANT
Under New Management
Ch. ("KUPIE") KHANZANDIAN

Battle of Bunker Hill in the G. W. Film

This presentation of the Battle of Bunker Hill is a scene from the George Washington Bicentennial commission's official motion picture life of Washington, which has just been completed by Eastman Teaching Films, Inc., for showing in classrooms during 1932.

Japanese May Not Stop Even at the Great Wall

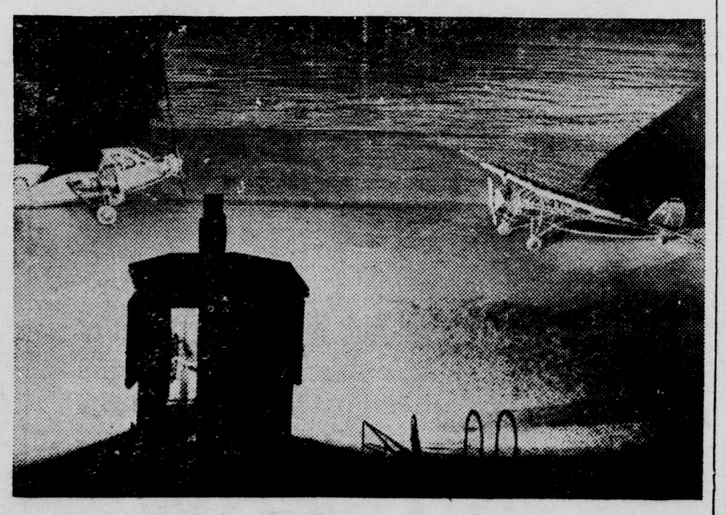

New view of part of the Great Wall of China behind which the Chinese troops withdrew from Manchuria. News dispatches indicate that the Japanese advance may go even beyond this ancient barrier.

Romance Never Dies for This Pair

There's no reason why being grandparents should mean the end of romance, say Rev. W. A. Bosworth and his bride, the former Mrs. Josephine Wright, who were married in Wichita recently. The groom, who is ninety years old, is former national chaplain of the G. A. R., and former G. A. R. commander in Kansas. He is one of the most active veterans of the Civil war now living and never misses a national G. A. R. reunion. He also attends reunions of alumni at Marietta college, of which he is the oldest living alumnus.

Floodlight Turns Night Into Day

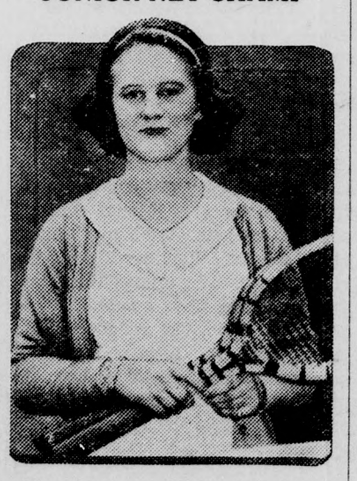

With the aid of the new 5,000,000 candlepower floodlight now in operation at Central airport, Camden, N. J., these planes have just made a perfectly safe landing. The light is a single lens type. like those used in lighthouses.

NEW MILITIA CHIEF

George Emerson Leach, who served two terms as mayor of Minneapolis after returning from the World war in which he was wounded in action near Pexonne, France, has now been made chief of the militia bureau for a four-year term with the rank of major general. He succeeds William G. Everson, who resigned to become pastor of the First Baptist church of Denver, Colo. The militia bureau is charged with the handling of National Guard affairs.

JUNIOR NET CHAMP

Miss Katherine Winthrop of Boston made her winter vacation from the Foxcroft school in Virginia a profitable one, for she successfully defended her national junior girls' tennis championship on the Longwood covered courts, defeating Miss Jones of Swampscott, Mass., in the final.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Paul O. Harding of San Francisco was elected president of the California State Employes' Association, succeeding Thomas E. Stanton, Jr.

State finance officers estimated approximately 200 State employees will be pensioned during the present fiscal year under the State Employes' Retirement Salary Act.

Ventura voters at two elections decided to make Ventura a charter city and to float a $100,000 bond issue for a through traffic artery skirting the business district.

Three business buildings were destroyed at Alpaugh recently with loss of $10,000 when fire of an undetermined origin broke out about 1 o'clock in the morning, for a time menacing the entire business district.

C. L. McLain of Fresno was re-elected president of the State Board of Education at its quarterly meeting at Sacramento. Gordon Grey of San Diego was named vice-president.

A water suit brought in the Superior Court at Redding almost twelve years ago was settled recently when the sixty landowners on North Cow Creek and Cedar Creek signed a compromise agreement.

Timothy A. Riordan, for many years a San Francisco city official, was named by Governor Rolph to be chief of the Division of Labor Statistics and Law Enforcement in the Department of Industrial Relations. The vacancy was created by the recent death of James W. Mullen.

Acquisition by Secretary Wilbur of a deed to 640 acres in Yosemite National Park was characterized by the Interior Department as another step toward eliminating private holdings in national parks. George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., manufacturer, bought the tract and donated it to the government.

Revenues of the city of Sacramento declined approximately $100,000 in 1931, according to a report filed with City Manager James Dean by City Controller E. D. Adams. The report states very few departments came up to the estimates of revenue made in the 1931 budget.

A reunion with his brother whom he had not seen in forty-two years marked the second trip in sixteen years from Yosemite Valley of R. H. S. Donaldson-Selby, curator of Yosemite Museum. Donaldson-Selby called on his brother John in the latter's Portland (Ore.) home. They had last seen each other in Manitoba in 1890.

Election of Harold J. Boyd, San Francisco deputy city assessor, as president of the United Veterans' Council, has been announced. The council represents the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and other groups. Joseph Claridge was re-elected secretary of the organization.

A joint booster meeting at Quincy resulted in the formation of the Plumas chapter of the mining association of California with Ray Jefferson, superintendent of the Jamison mine, Johnsville, as president. The tourist promotion section voted to concentrate its efforts on the completion of the Feather River highway.

Completion of two State highway projects in Kern county at a cost of nearly a half-million dollars and partial completion of four projects in Tulare county directly affecting Kern traffic, at a total cost of more than a million dollars, was announced by the State Division of Highways in a report to the San Joaquin Valley council of the State Chamber of Commerce.

This year is expected to set a high mark in California convention and tourist history. More than two million visitors, many of them from distant lands, will visit the State during the coming twelve months, drawn by such important events as the Olympic games in Los Angeles in July, the Shrine convention in San Francisco, July 26-28, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting in Sacramento in August. It is expected more people will come to California this year than were here in 1915 during the expositions in San Francisco and San Diego.

The new charter of San Francisco adopted at the municipal election last November has become effective. The city officials elected at that election were inaugurated, headed by Mayor Rossi, who addressed the Supervisors and recommended numerous economies and reorganizations.

Melting snows and storm waters have filled Wood Lake bank full, while the highway east of town is in danger of overflow in case of another heavy storm.

William S. ("Bill") Hart, veteran of hard-riding Western films, is galloping to the aid of American Indians today. Hart, with several other southern Californians, filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state for the National League for Justice to American Indians. Included in the list of incorporators were Walking Eagle, Chief Luther and Standing Bear.

Water is now being pumped from the San Joaquin river at Mallard station to the Chenery reservoir at Clyde to be stored for the coming year, according to officials of the water company. Six central Contra Costa county communities and intervening territories will be served from this reservoir. Pumping will be continued until the capacity of one billion gallons has been reached. It is estimated that the peak of storage will be reached late in March. The river, with salinity cleared by the heavy rains, bears promise of remaining fresh until late in June.

Northern California fruit exports for the year 1931 showed a gain in momentum, according to figures released by the Commerce Department recently. Friut exports, including canned, dried and fresh fruits, in the eleven months of 1931 were 11 per cent greater than those of the preceding period, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reports. The aggregate value of these shipments amounted to $39,032,000, against $34,716,000 for the period in 1930. The sharpest rise in values was made in fresh fruits. This division advanced 28 per cent.

The location, and dates of encampment, for the 1932 Advance Reserve Officers' Training Corps Camps have been announced from Ninth Corps Area headquarters, as follows: Crissy Field, California, May 17-June 27, inclusive; Fort George Wright, Washington, June 9-July 20, inclusive; Fort Lewis, Washington, June 10-July 21, inclusive; Vancouver Barracks, Washington, June 14-July 25, inclusive; Presidio of Monterey, California, June 21-August 1, inclusive; Fort Worden, Washington, June 21-August 1, inclusive; Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyoming, June 3-July 14, inclusive.

Expediting San Francisco's fight to base the Pacific fleet there for at least six months every year, Congress moved to widen the north channel of the bay and remove all major obstacles to navigation. A telegram from Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn to Leland W. Cutler, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House had ordered army engineers to begin a survey of Potato patch, Centissima rock and Sears rock at the entrance to the bay, with a view to improving harbor conditions. Obstructing rocks will be cut away and a deeper channel cleared for ships entering the bay. This move was viewed by the chamber as a preliminary victory in its fight to share the Pacific fleet.

Two days of international exchange of goodwill between Lower California and Southern California business men and political leaders was climaxed recently with a luncheon in Tia Juana which had as its key note plans for the California San Diego Centennial Exposition here in 1934. The luncheon was sponsored by three Tia Juana groups, the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club and the Masonic Lodge. Representing the Mexican Federal government was Jose Maria Tapia, director of customs. Representing the Northern District of Lower California was Gov. Augustine Olachea. Headed by Mayor Austin and Col. D. C. Collier, president of the exposition organization, the San Diego delegation carried the goodwill of Southern California across the international line.

Building and loan associations of California are in a highly satisfactory condition, considering the general business situation, Former Governor Friend W. Richardson stated recently. Richardson recently was named State Building and Loan Commissioner. "Building and loan association funds are invested in the safest security known to the financial world—loans on American homes," said Richardson. "Because the desire to own homes is the primary ambition of the families using these funds, the vast majority of payments due will be made, even if great sacrifice is entailed. Protection of the individual investor's funds will be the main object of my regime. People should not confuse building and loan associations with banks. In order to earn 6 per cent, money entrusted to these organizations must be kept at work. Unless a building-loan's funds are at work the institution is not healthy." Commissioner Richardson said he planned to eliminate some employes in his department whose services were not actually needed.

Undersized clams proved the downfall of six clam diggers at Santa Cruz when they were taken to Watsonville, before Judge C. R. Taylor, and fined $225. The six men had 130 clams in their possession, 120 of which were undersized.

Arrival of California's first grape shipment ever sent to Norway has been announced by William R. Gage, chief of the State Bureau of Commerce. Hans Claussen of Bergen, Norway, reported the shipment was in good condition.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ounce and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off until all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce Powdered Saxolite dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. At drug stores.

Unfair Exchange

The Vicomte de Rohan, president of the French Automobile club, said at a dinner in New York:

"The modern girl is a cynic. I once heard a modern girl in Paris condemning marriage.

"'Marriage!' she said. 'Pah! What is marriage but the exchange of the attentions of a dozen men for the inattention of one?'"

Lieutenant on Warpath

Arpad Miroczy of Budapest, former Hungarian artillery lieutenant, has, since the war, filed damage suits against his captain, major, colonel, all his generals, the minister of war, six judges, twenty-three detectives and forty-two lawyers, more than five hundred cases in all.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Chas. H. Fletcher

CASTORIA

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

Gave Him the Works

Magistrate—Witness says you neither slowed down nor tried to avoid the pedestrian.

Motorist—I took all precautions. I blew my horn and cursed him.—Answers (London).

Quickest Way to Darken Gray Hair Naturally

Don't dye hair. Science has discovered a quick, simple way to darken gray hair naturally—so nobody can tell—restore its original shade safely and as easily as brushing. It makes the hair healthy. Finest way known to get rid of gray hair, as thousands testify. Try it. Pay druggist only 75c for a bottle of WYETH'S SAGE & SULPHUR and follow easy directions. Results will delight you.

Matter of Business

"They say Dave married Gladys for money." "Yes, to get back what he'd given her!"

Save your money not for a rainy day, but for a sunshiny one when you can spend it.

A fagged brain means a fagged body.

STOP THAT COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat--that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE

BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER

Harold's Mother Knew Answer

"Yes, sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. H. M. Smith, 421 Topeka Ave., Topeka, Kansas. "He's five and weighs fifty-seven pounds. He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for his colds and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my boy and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the souring waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with coated tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, always bears the word "California."

Strange Himalyan Tribe

A tribe of "Methuselahs," three of whom claim to be one hundred and forty-five years of age and who live in caves 22,000 feet above the sea level in the Himalayas, are described by Dr. Irvin Baird, who recently arrived in London after a visit to these wonderful people. "There are about 600 of them," Doctor Baird said, "and they are all of good physique. Their women are really beautiful. They live solely on vegetable substances." Doctor Baird added that he intended to return to discover the secret of their longevity.

Gaelic Sign Too Attractive

Merchants of Dingwall, Scotland, decided that during the annual Mod week last year they would make a hit with visitors by having all signs over their stores in Gaelic. One non-Gaelic business man got a neighbor to write an advertisement of the excellent quality of his wares. When a crowd stormed the place the merchant learned that his sign advertised that any customer coming into the store at a certain time would get "three free drinks." And down came the sign in record time.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. No alcohol. Sold by druggists in tablets or liquid.—Adv.

Flexible Railway Ties

Flexible railway ties recently were announced as the discovery of a German inventor. They are nearly oval in cross section and are open at the bottom so they give to the weight of trains. Their open centers are filled with ballast. Steel plates keep them from slipping, says Popular Science Monthly.

MENTHOLATUM
Mentholatum cools, heals and softens chapped lips, face and hands. It is an inexpensive and valuable aid to a good complexion.
Jars and tubes, 30c.
CHAPPED SKIN

Knowledge Through Eyes

Dr. Milton Metfessel of the University of California finds that 65 per cent of the knowledge of the normal human being is assimilated through the eyes. Twenty-five per cent is obtained through auditory experiences, and 10 per cent by touch, taste and smell.

Co'e's Carbolisalve Quickly Relieves and heals burning, itching and torturing skin diseases. It instantly stops the pain of burns. Heals without scars. 30c and 60c. Ask your druggist, or send 30c to The J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill., for a package.—Advertisement.

We don't believe in intelligence tests, except the unpremeditated ones that present themselves all through the day.

There are people who dislike Sunday instead of Monday. It breaks up the routine of the week.

END CHEST COLDS QUICK WITH GOOD RED PEPPER HEAT

Relieves Almost Instantly

When noisy breathing and sharp pains in chest, dry cough or washed out feeling broadcast the presence of a chest cold, just try this safe and sure remedy that relieves chest colds and aches and pains of rheumatism, neuritis and lumbago almost instantly. It is the penetrating, healing heat of red peppers. Now this genuine red peppers' heat is contained in an ointment you simply rub on to get relief in less than 3 minutes. It is Rowles Red Pepper Rub. No blister, nor burn nor harm. It does bring the relief you want. Get a small jar from your druggist.

The BEGINNERS

A Novel by Henry Kitchell Webster

Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

(WNU Service)

PRECEDING EVENTS

Acting in good faith in an effort to aid a neighbor, Ruth Ingraham, in a business way, Edward Patterson, cashier of the Chicago agency of a life insurance company, is wrongly suspected by his wife, Julia, of infidelity. Her practical accusation unfits him for business, and he takes a short vacation. On his return his daughter, Edith, tells him his personal belongings are in the "spare room," having been removed from the room which had been his and his wife's bedroom. Patterson accepts the situation as proof of his wife's belief in his guilt. Edith, seventeen years old, is worried over the estrangement of her parents. Her mother only partly succeeds in her efforts to comfort her. The son, Edward, Junior, is at college. A business matter brings an "inventor," James Mariner, into Patterson's life. Mariner needs $6,000, with which to push his invention, an automobile choke, and Patterson, after a brief investigation, decides to go in with him. Without informing his family, he resigns from his position with the insurance company, devoting his whole time to the pushing of the invention. An old friend, Albert Willard, is frankly skeptical of the value of the choke. Patterson tells his wife of the change he has made. She accepts the situation. Edith is made aware of the change in the family fortunes by her mother telling her she has decided to part with the cook, she and Edith to do the housework.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—6—

"Edith!" The single word pulled her up short. It wasn't often that mother took that tone. "You're acting very silly about this. I'm disappointed in you. You shouldn't criticize your father, because you don't understand. I don't criticize him, myself. I don't want to because I do understand. He hasn't been happy for a long time in the insurance company. He's felt that there wasn't any future in it for him. I'm glad he's made the change, because he's happier. I'll be glad even if it doesn't come out exactly as he hopes it will."

A memory of something he'd said while they were riding home in the taxi after the play flashed into the girl's mind and held her thoughtfully silent for a minute, oblivious even to her mother's rebuke. He'd made her rather blue by saying that he knew now, at forty-six, that he'd never be rich nor conspicuously successful just as he knew that he'd never find a bag of pearls or a treasure box of pieces-of-eight behind the wainscoting in the library.

"You mean," she said thoughtfully to her mother, "that it's sort of an adventure for him?"

Mother gave her a funny look at that. "Yes," she said, "that's exactly what I mean. And what we must do is to make our part of it an adventure, too. Do you see, dear?"

Edith nodded. That was the line they'd have to take, all right. But it didn't seem to her that dad had any right to throw away a perfectly good salary that was keeping them all safe and comfortable in favor of a hunt for hidden treasure. Suppose he didn't find it, where would they be then?

"Mother," she asked, "do you think it will come out right and make us rich? Honestly, mother?"

Mother wasn't instantly ready with an answer. "It isn't sure to come out that way, of course," she said at last. "Even your father doesn't say it's sure, but he thinks it is probable, and his judgment is usually very good. As long as he thinks it's more likely than not to make us rich, why, I do, too."

It came over Edith with almost sickening force that her mother had no real hope at all. She expected the adventure to fail. She was trying to encourage herself. Edith found a lump coming in her throat.

"All right," she said as gayly as possible, "then I'll believe it, too."

When her father came home a little later, she rushed upon him and gave him a tremendous hug. "Dad," she cried, "I think it's perfectly great! Mother's been telling me. I'm simply too excited to breathe, and I'll bet you are, too, though you are trying to look solemn and middle-aged about it."

"I am, for a fact," he admitted. Then he went over to mother and kissed her cheek. "We've had a good day," he said. "Three nice orders in one mail. I'd like to celebrate. It isn't too late for a movie, is it?"

Whenever dad was in that mood Edith found him irresistible. Doubts and fears were forgotten. Of course the great adventure was coming out all right.

Sometimes dad came home silent and depressed, and if he talked at all it would be unbearably about bills and expenses and things they couldn't afford. That mood of his always reduced Edith to despair. She had, besides, black moments of her own. One of the worst of these was occasioned by her first visit to the factory.

It was in a rather jubilant spirit of adventure that she set out, which made the shock of coming down to literal reality all the worse. Nothing less explicit than the sign, newly painted on the shabby brick face of the building, could have convinced her that she'd come to the right place. So the cloud castle of her dreams came down to this! This was where they were going to make their fortune. She tried to laugh at herself, but couldn't. Her panicky impulse was to drive away again and pretend she'd never come, but she was trembling so, she was afraid she couldn't drive. Finally she went in through the grimy little door that said "Office" on it.

Dad was there sitting at a desk, and seemed pleased as well as surprised to see her.

"Sit down," he said. "I'll be through in a minute." After apparently hesitating a moment he introduced her to the man who sat opposite him at the desk. His name was Weed, and she thought him detestable. The other occupant of the room he didn't introduce. He was younger, perhaps. He had a thick, dirty-looking skin and a pimply face, and he sat morosely at a typewriter pounding out a letter rather slowly with two thick fingers. She turned her chair a little to make it easier not to look at him.

She'd made occasional visits to her father's old office and the contrast really was appalling. That had been in its sober way palatial, furnished with great dull mahogany desks and leather chairs. But this place! Why, it was hardly clean. It wasn't, really. And it was shabby. The floor was bare. And to think of poor old dad having to come to a place like this! It was pitiful.

Another man came into the office from the shop. A workman in overalls, his face and hands streaked with dirty machine oil like a man in a garage. He asked, "Is Mr. Mariner coming back this afternoon, Mr. Patterson?"

"I believe not," dad said. And then to her amazement he stopped the man before he could go back into the shop. "Oh, Charlie," he said, "wait a minute. I want you to meet my daughter Edith. Edith, this is Charlie Franklin."

Charles seemed to have an idea of shaking hands, and he rubbed his hand on his overalls, but then he looked at it and laughed. "I guess it'll hardly do," he said. And then, "You haven't see our shop yet, have you?"

Luckily dad answered for her. "No, it's her first visit. I'll bring her out in a minute."

"It's pretty dirty out there," Charlie said, "and it isn't straightened out yet, but we're really making something there, Miss Patterson."

She liked Charlie Franklin—you couldn't help liking anyone who spoke as pleasantly and as comfortably as he—and his assurance that they were really making something restored somewhat her courage.

But she found the shop, when father made good his promise and conducted her through, almost as dispiriting a place as the office. The meagerness of its equipment was a shock to her. The machinery didn't anywhere near fill up the space even in that little building. It was just pitiful. Did dad really think he could make a fortune out of that?

When she and dad got into the car and started driving home, she began talking feverishly about anything she could think of that was not the shop. She settled finally upon the senior play at school and gave him a detailed account of the misadventures of the last rehearsal. He wasn't more than half listening, she knew, and at last the thing she dreaded happened.

"I'm afraid," he said, cutting her short, "that you were disappointed in our place down there. You know you can't judge a thing—you can't judge what it will grow into—by what it looks like at the beginning. A turnip's bigger than an apple seed, but it won't grow into a tree, and the seed will if it gets the chance. We've got a seed down there, and we're going to try to give it a chance to grow. You wait a while and see. I didn't mean you to visit it quite so soon. I thought I'd let you wait until we'd put out a leaf or two."

"Oh, it's all right," she said. "I understand what you mean." It was a relief not to have to pretend any longer. "I suppose if I hadn't gone to see you so many times in your other office. . . ."

He laughed at that, but, she felt, a little uncertainly, and she perceived he felt that contrast, too.

"But that other office wasn't mine," he said. "I belonged to it, almost as if I had been one of the items of furniture. This thing is mine, half mine, almost, and as it grows, my share in it will grow. You liked Charlie Franklin, didn't you?"

"Oh, yes," she said, "he's great. But dad, who are those other people? That man with the cigar and that horrible boy at the typewriter?"

"Weed's a salesman," he said. "He isn't satisfactory. His job is to go around to dealers and garages and try to get them to carry our choke. The appalling boy at the typewriter is a concession—well, he's a concession. But I don't think we shall be saddled with him much longer."

They drove along for a while in silence.

"Oh, there are plenty of discouragements," he said at last, "but the thing itself is right and it's going to succeed."

Edith laid her hand on his knee. "I know it will, dad," she said. "Really and truly, I do."

To mother, when the three of them sat down to dinner that night, she showed herself full of enthusiasm and confidence. She thought everything was perfectly great.

"What did you think of Mr. Mariner?" mother asked. "I haven't met him yet, you know."

"He wasn't there today, either," dad said. "He has been out a good deal of course. By the way," he went on, "I think it would be nice if you were to ask him to dinner. His wife's been visiting a sister of hers somewhere, but she came back a week or two ago."

He Stopped on That Word With a Positive Jerk and Looked at His Wife. It Was Exactly as if She'd Thrown Something at Him.

"Of course we'll have them out to dinner. But we'd better do it right away before Norma goes. Will it be all right if you ask him? We better make it Monday night, I guess. Wednesday is Norma's last day."

The Mariners agreed to come Monday night, and mother decided to give them the regular company dinner; a crown roast of lamb with peas in the middle, tomato soup before, and ice cream with fudge sauce afterward.

Edith was kept late at rehearsal that afternoon and didn't get home till after dad did. She found them in the hall upstairs debating the question of clothes.

"Did you tell him not to dress?" mother was asking.

"Why, I think I did," dad said. "I know I told him it wasn't going to be anything but just a regular family dinner. Heavens, he wouldn't think of dressing, anyhow. I doubt very much if he's got a dress suit."

Mother didn't seem entirely satisfied. "If you don't want people to dress, it's better to tell them so in so many words," she said. "But it's probably all right." Both of them seemed to feel that the evening was bound to go wrong somehow.

Edith was just coming downstairs in her brown taffeta frock when the doorbell rang. It was a little early for the Mariners, but it couldn't be anyone else. She knew that Norma must be approaching a crisis in the kitchen, so she opened the door herself; and through the awful moment of greeting them and asking them to come in, she was so paralyzed with embarrassment by the sight of the man's white expanse of shirt front that she hardly knew what she was saying.

He had dressed, after all. And there was dad at the head of the stairs on the point of coming down in his business suit. It seemed like a disaster to her and she felt personally responsible for it, so she was immensely grateful to dad, and proud of him, too, for taking it so comfortably.

As soon as the introductions were over he said to Mr. Mariner, "I swore to my wife that I'd told you not to dress. I thought I had. But it doesn't matter. It only makes it more of a party. I'd go up and change now, but I'm afraid it would spoil the dinner."

That ought to have made everything all right, but somehow it didn't. Mr. Mariner didn't seem to mind, but his wife did, and she couldn't stop talking about it. She was unbelievably awful. She was fattish and smooth and simpery. She was dressed up within an inch of her life in a bright green satin gown with an imitation jade girdle. She wore green stockings, too, and slippers that were too tight for her fat feet. She had her hair bobbed—its color was too golden to be true—and all of her skin that showed outside her dress—there were acres of it—was simply plastered with dead white powder. Her voice was sweet—cloying and sticky like honey—and it almost made you sick.

Nobody got a chance to say anything much, for she talked practically all the time. When she spoke to her husband she called him Pet, right across the table. You didn't know where to look over some of the things she said to him. You could feel your face burn. His name for her was worse; he called her Baby. Was it possible for people really to be as sloppy about each other as that? Was that how they talked and acted when there was nobody else around? Before the dreadful dinner was over she decided it was not.

While Norma was bringing in the ice cream and under cover of some long story that "Baby" was telling dad, by way of showing how crazy men had always been about her, "Pet" began talking to mother. He told her how much he was enjoying the dinner, not only the food but the home atmosphere. "You don't know what it means," he said, "to people who live in a boarding house—"

He stopped on that word with a positive jerk and looked at his wife. It was exactly as if she'd thrown something at him. Then, in a voice that was just as treacly as ever, only now it had something else in it—oil of vitriol or carbolic acid or something in chemistry—"Baby" began to explain.

They'd looked for apartments until they were simply discouraged, and she was sick of housekeeping anyway with the servant problem what it was. And they'd heard of this wonderful establishment of Madame Gerard's—it really was too funny of Pet to speak of it as a boarding house, because it was frightfully exclusive and of course perfectly refined—and had gone there temporarily. "Of course," she finished, "it doesn't matter particularly to me one way or the other, because I'm here for so short a time. I'm going to California in a week or two."

"Pet" didn't exactly look surprised at that. He'd caught his breath as if he'd meant to protest and then didn't because he was afraid to. You could see he knew what he was going to get on the way home to the boarding house, and that the more he said now the worse it would be. Edith was frightened herself. The woman was simply a great big green boa-constrictor.

After dinner, in the sitting room when dad and Mr. Mariner lighted cigars and sat together on the sofa talking business, "Baby" fastened herself on poor mother. She again apologized for the mistake she'd made in telling "Pet" that of course he must dress for dinner. It had been such a stupid mistake. She hadn't quite understood. And of course it was a perfectly foolish custom, anyway, really.

From where Edith sat she caught snatches, too, of the talk between Mr. Mariner and dad. Dad wasn't agreeing with Mr. Mariner. Once she saw him look startled. "Do you mean they threaten to bring suit?" he asked. And then, with a glance around as if he feared he'd spoken too loud, he lowered his voice and asked some more questions that Mr. Mariner didn't seem to like to answer very well. He acted as if his feelings were hurt, and his voice sounded sulky. But he didn't act that way very long. Pretty soon he was talking again, as eagerly as ever.

About nine o'clock, with the explanation that she had some studying to do, Edith said good night to their guests and went up to her room. But when she heard them go she came down again in her mother's bathrobe to talk over the evening with her mother and dad.

"Wasn't she the most awful woman you ever saw? Do you suppose he's really crazy about her, or would he like to kill her? He's afraid of her, I expect."

Mother made the conventional adult protest, but only half-heartedly. Then she said, what was pretty outspoken for mother, "Well, I hope for his sake she does go to California soon."

But dad was really blue. He hardly seemed to be listening.

Finally mother said, "She isn't to be taken seriously, is she, Ned?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

STOP YOUR COLD IN 6 HOURS WITH DAROL
25¢ 25¢
Breaks a cold in 6 hours.
Drives it away in 12 hours.
Relieves
Headache—Neuralgia—Pains
McKESSON & ROBBINS
Quality Since 1833

HOTEL ROOSEVELT
SAN FRANCISCO'S NEW FINE HOTEL
Every room with tub and shower $2.00 to $3.00
Jones at Eddy. Garage under same roof.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.
FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

Faint Praise

Miss Thin—Don't you think my new dress is just exquisite? They all say so.

Fannie—Oh, lovely! I think that dressmaker of yours could make a clothes-prop look graceful.—Stray Stories.

Advice

"Yes, she is the girl of my dreams."

"There's another guy after her. Better wake up."

Stiff, Aching, Sore!

Get quick relief this simple way

Here's the way to relieve painful lumbago without blistering or burning. Rub on good old St. Jacobs Oil. Quickly it draws out inflammation and pain. Wonderful relief comes ...in a minute! St. Jacobs Oil is just the remedy for aches and pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Backache, Neuralgia and sore, swollen Joints. Get a small bottle from your druggist.

Apt Illustration

Smith—Hope is really a wonderful thing.

Jones—True. One little nibble keep a man fishing all day.—Stray Stories.

Got It Open, Anyway

Taxi Driver—"Look what happened to your trunk!" Traveler—"I'm glad of it. I had lost the key."

IN YOUTH AND MIDDLE LIFE

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription every time I have an opportunity. When I used to suffer with pain in my side and with headache I found relief by taking a bottle or two of it," said Mrs. Amy Pointer of 123 N. Bunker Hill Ave. "And when I reached middle life, not long since, I found that the 'Favorite Prescription' was still my best friend. It carried me safely through the trying time and left me a strong, well, happy woman. My advice to women is, try this medicine." Ask your druggist for

Dr. Pierce's Prescription

Unkind Inference

Rimer—"I put all my mind into this poem." Editor—"So I see—it's blank verse, isn't it?"

Drink Away that heavy, drowsy feeling!

When constipation signals, bring back the flush of health to your face by flushing the bowels thoroughly. A cup or two of Garfield Tea will cleanse away unhealthy, stagnant waste, renew the feeling of energy and pep

At the nearest druggist

GARFIELD TEA
A Natural Laxative Drink

Who can be a keen thinker by trying to? Nobody. Keen thinking is an innate and uncontrollable gift.

Little Girl Cried Out in her sleep

Was irritable, restless, cross and had no appetite. A neighbor suggested worms and recommended Dr. Jayne's Vermifuge. After taking one bottle the little girl was a new child. Only too often children, as well as adults, are subjected to drastic treatments for various ailments when their real trouble is worms. Be alert for the symptoms and treat promptly with Dr. Jayne's Vermifuge at the first suggestion that worms may be present. Your druggist will tell you that many of your neighbors are using this proved remedy. Get a bottle today. DR. D. JAYNE & SON, Philadelphia.

OVER 36 MILLION BOTTLES SOLD

JAYNE'S Vermifuge

MENLO PARK RECORDER
HARRIS & HARRIS, PUBLISHERS
L. E. HARRIS ..... EDITOR

Published every Friday at Menlo Park, San Mateo County, California
Entered as second-class mail matter, Act of October 3, 1917, Section
SUBSCRIPTION RATES: $1.75 per year; $1 for six months

ELECTRIC AND GAS INDUSTRIES GO FORWARD

The electric and gas utilities have not been "lying down" during the depression. To the contrary, they have spent tremendous sums of money in improving and increasing their generating and distributing facilities in preparation for the time when general business conditions will be sufficiently improved for industry to take advantage of the potential service available.

This is in line with the policy of these industries, ever since their inception. They have met the demands of the future. They are not content to stand still. They have taken the attitude that the public is entitled to constantly better and cheaper service and each year has seen definite progress in both directions.

There is another important phase to electric and gas developments—their influence in alleviating, as much as single industries can, unemployment. These industries have shown faith in the future during an unusually severe period of stress—a spirit that is in keeping with the pioneer courage that made possible the founding and building of these two great public servants.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

THAT the stores of the home city are ready with complete stocks that will meet your every demand and requirement.

They have serviceable merchandise which bears unmistakable distinction and priced most economically.

A visit to the stores of the home city will show you an easy way towards your buying problems.

When you read the advertisements of the stores of your home city, you will see they are indicative of the highest quality of merchandise. You can't help but be attracted by their unparalled offerings.

The merchandise they offer is of honest quailty, which gives satisfaction.

The stores of the home city have a great variety of merchandise, and something that will fit every purse. In addition to quality, you will find service and satisfaction.

500 PER CENT JUMP IN FEDERAL TAXES

In a recent address, United States Senator Felix Herbert of Rhode Island, pointed out that a few years ago a tremendous hue and cry was heard because the cost of the federal government had reached $1,000,000,000 a year. Yet, at the last session of Congress, appropriations made totaled more than four billion dollars. In the 31 years between 1900 and the present, the per capita cost of the federal government increased from $6.84 to $32.96—about 500 per cent.

"With a never ending extension of the activities of government into other fields than those originally contemplated by the founders," said Senator Herbert, "these increased costs are inevitable. Through the efforts of organized minorities, we are constantly broadening the scope of our operations, and naturally increasing our costs."

In other words, those groups and cliques which campaigned so strenuously and successfully for government operation of this and government supervision of that, are now paying the piper along with the rest or us who were willing to let well enough alone in the beginning. The hand of the bureaucrat is said to throttle initiative—and it likewise picks the pocketbook with neatness and dispatch. Nothing is more expensive, or more detrimental to progress, than bureaucracy. Let us remember that when we go to the polls.

Why Isn't It Done?

WE Americans are disposed to laugh at the conservative Englishman who advances as an all-sufficient objection to any innovation: "But it isn't done, you know." Have we a right to? As a matter of fact, we are just as hidebound and illogical about many things.

If you were going to buy a trunk, for instance, would it strike you as the acme of efficiency to have to go to a different store to buy the key? And yet that is a proceeding which we exactly parallel when we buy cans of food in a grocery store, and then hie ourselves off to a hardware store to get an instrument with which to open them.

Make It Convenient

Housewives are beginning to ask for the convenience of being able to buy cans and can openers in the same place. That's one reason why grocery stores ought to sell can openers, but there's another equally cogent one, too. If the grocer wants to make a hit and keep on selling his canned foods, he should be sure that his customers get a good can opener and not one of those which have been so aptly described as the "punch, push and tear" variety with their danger of injury from jagged points of tin.

Efficient modern can openers are simply operated by squeezing two handles together or merely moving a clamp to force the prong or cutting wheel into the tin. Then the cover is removed by turning a large wing nut or handle which cuts it off clean, and leaves the edges of both can and cover smooth.*

SPECIALS

COOKIES, All Kinds, dozen 15c
CHERRY PIES 25c
CREAM PIES 25c
MINCE PIES 25c
Also a fine variety of
LAYER CAKE ..... 25c and up

DUTCH OVEN BAKERY
HIGHWAY, MENLO PARK

CHRISTENSEN & ANDERSON Inc.
Palo Alto 258 — 445 Florence St.
Palo Alto
WARM AIR FURNACES - GAS WATER HEATERS

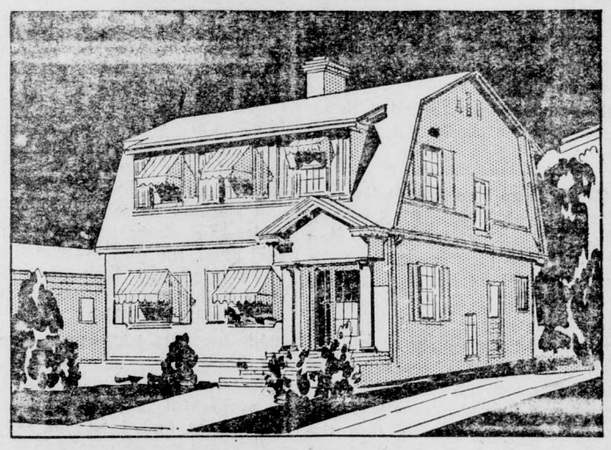

PLUMBING	SKYLIGHTS
PUMP WORK	HEATING STOVES
GAS RANGES	PATENT CHIMNEYS
STEAM HEATING	SHEET METAL WORK
LAWN SPRINKLERS	OIL BURNING OUTTITS

Natural Gas
cuts fuel costs

These homes formerly used gas for cooking and water heating and solid fuel for house heating. Then Natural Gas came. It was used for house heating and down went the total cost of fuel.

Many persons, discovering the cheapness of Natural Gas, heat their homes to a greater extent. In such cases, present fuel bills are about the same as when home-owners used gas for cooking and water heating and solid fuels for house heating.

But no matter how you look at the facts, Natural Gas is the cheapest fuel, to say nothing of its cleanliness and convenience.

1077 Harvard Road, Piedmont

Cost of gas for cooking and water heating and solid fuels for house heating:		Cost of Natural Gas for all domestic uses:
Oct. 1929	$ 3.42	Oct. 1930	$ 2.90
Nov.	4.23	Nov.	2.73
Dec.	3.96	Dec.	12.13
Jan. 1930	4.50	Jan. 1931	19.33
Feb.	3.78	Feb.	10.03
Mar.	4.68	Mar.	8.75
Cost of gas	$24.57		$55.87
Cost of solid fuels for house heating	$96.50	Saving	$65.20
	$121.07

327 W. Park Street, Stockton

Cost of gas for cooking and water heating and solid fuels for house heating:		Cost of Natural Gas for all domestic uses:
Oct. 1929	$ 2.78	Oct. 1930	$12.85
Nov.	4.60	Nov.	17.01
Dec.	2.99	Dec.	23.25
Jan. 1930	4.27	Jan. 1931	15.89
Feb.	2.56	Feb.	10.69
Cost of gas	$17.20		$79.69
Cost of solid fuels for house heating	$95.00	Saving	$32.51
	$112.20

Heat your home with Natural Gas. See the modern heating appliances at our office or a DEALER'S Store

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY
P·G·and E·
Owned - Operated - Managed
by Californians
204-132

Advertising
is the Sunlight of Business

To all that is healthy and vital in business, it means increased strength, growth and stability, but advertising is a fierce heat which consumes that which is unsound

A business which is not a good business should not be advertised. A business which would not benefit from widespread advertising should change its ideals

WE SELL AND INSTALL ONLY
A. G. A. Gas Appliances
AS APPROVED BY THE P. G. & E.
CONVENIENT TERMS
J. E. BRACESCO, Plumber
1045 Highway, Menlo Park — PHONES 3609-3850

Sports

Menlo Basketeers Open Season With Two Games Here

Atascadero Team Beaten Twice By San Mateo

Coach Dud De Groot's Menlo Junior College basketball varsity will meet Coach Carlson's Moran Junior College team in a two game series this coming weekend. The first game will take place on Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock, while the second encounter will be played on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The latter being played in the afternoon in order that everyone will be able to witness the Stanford-California big game affair at the Stanford Pavilion in the evening.

Bull Dogs Lick Moran

Menlo's season record to date shows a loss by a very close score to the strong San Jose State aggregation and a split series with a still more powerful opponent the Chico State Teachers College. During the past weekend Moran dropped a two game series to San Mateo Junior College by decisive scores. When one recalls that both of Menlo's opponents are members of the Far Western Conference and that St. Mary's College who decisively defeated Stanford only won from Chico by a scant three points the dope seems to favor Menlo. However, due to the fact that Menlo has not played in any organized competition during the past three weeks and because of the first team switches necessitated by injuries, Menlo will at the best, go into the game on about even terms with Moran.

First Conference Game

This will be the first real opportunity to see Coach Dud De Groot's 1932 aggregation in action and it is hoped that a record crowd will be on hand to give the team a real sendoff into their Conference battles which begin the following weekend with a two game series on the Menlo court with Modesto Junior College.

Let's keep the Northern California Junior College Conference Basketball Championship at Menlo for the second successive year.

Lightweight Cage Men Vanquish Belmont 13-7

Kent Weaver Carries Off Point Honors

The Menlo Fighting Demons finally broke into the scoring column by trouncing a larger Belmont team 13-7. The game was played last Friday afternoon in the Menlo gym. Weaver was high scorer for the Demons totaling four points and Bradford, playing his first game at center followed with a field goal and a foul.

The Menlonians started off fast and scored a field goal in the first few seconds. Belmont retaliated with a basket, but at the quarter Menlo led 3-2. At the half way mark the Demons were out in front with an 8-2 lead. In the third quarter the Belmonters gained a basket making the score 10-6. Belmont's laft half rally was stopped cold and Menlo won handily 13-7.

Although the game was slow, Menlo showed its first fire of the season by outplaying a larger and heavier team.

Lightweights To Meet Montezuma Saturday

The Fighting Demons will travel to Los Gatos on Saturday to play the Montezuma Thirties in the first conference game of the season. The Demons copped the title last year and stand in well to repeat this year.

Although the Thirties did not show much against local high school competition, they showed what they could do against private school teams by beating a larger Belmont team 13-7. Coach McKaey will put a strong team on the floor although many ineligibilities have hampered him. At forwards he has Bovet, Bancroft, Weaver and Bradford; at guards there are Losse, Erhman, Broughton and Rushton, and at center are Sinton and Ortmeyer.

This game will be the first game of a home and home series between the Mountaineer 130's and the Demons. The starting lineup will in all probability be: forwards, Bancroft and Weaver; guards, Rushton, and Erhman, center, Sinton.

Wise Birds Take Note

Strings of cranberries and lumps of suet make a good larder when the earth refuses to yield a worm for any bird, no matter how early. That is why wise birds at this season nest near Girl Scout houses and camps, where they have friends who realize that winter may mean hunger.

High School Five Beats Belmont Quintet 32-12

Captain Clumeck Wins High Point Honors

Approaching midseason form the Menlo Acorns defeated the Belmont school by a lopsided 32-12 score, here last Friday in a practise game.

Menlo's offense showed vast improvement over the previous games. The accurate passing attack, which almost invariably wound up with Captain Clumeck receiving the ball under the basket where he had little difficulty in piling up the winning total, was one feature of the contest.

Haggard Shines

One of the sparkling plays of the game came about when Milt Haggard heaved a pass from the floor which resulted in the sinking of a basket.

Menlo took an early lead and held it throughout the entire game, the half-time score standing 18-2. During the second half, Belmont staged a rally against the Menlo reserves, scoring 10 points to the preps 14.

Clumeck Scores Most

High point men of the game were Clumeck with 16 digits, Haggard with 6, followed closely by Brandt, Belmont center, who led his team with 5 points

Cubs Take Muldoon In With 24 To 5 Score

The Menlo Cubs trounced the Muldoon Babes 24 to 5 on the Menlo court Thursday, January 14. Menlo played by far the best game they have played this season and were superior in every department. Fidanque was high point man with 7 points.

The starting lineup was: Fidanque, right guard; Leonard, left guard; Davis, center; Roos, right forward, and Wilkes, left forward.

The substitutes who got in the game were: Miner, Rolfhs, Moody, St. Johns, Wales, Fuller and Rosentrater.

WASHINGTON BICENTENIAL STAMP ISSUE

Recently one of the most interesting set of stamps ever issued was put out in this country. It consisted of twelve portraits of George Washington showing him in different periods of life. The portraits were taken from paintings of Washington by Charles Stuart and several other noted artists.

It is the first time in the history of the United States that a whole issue of stamps has been devoted to one man. This will probably mark a new era in United States stamps with whole issues also devoted to other famous American citizens.

The values of these stamps range from one half cent to ten cents and the whole set may be bought for fifty seven cents by Menlo stamp collectors who wish to purchase them. These stamps will be on sale for the entire year at all postoffices and should you purchase them they will be a very fitting memory to keep of the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birthday.

GIRL SCOUT FOOD SALE DATE CHANGED TO FEB. 13

The big food sale which the Menlo Park Girl Scout Committee is arranging has been postponed to February 13, and will be held near the post office on Santa Cruz avenue on that date.

Proceeds from this sale will go toward sending some of the members of the Menlo Park troop to the summer camp.

The local troop is doing much for many of the young girls of the community and deserves the support of every public spirited resident of the city.

Don't forget the date, February 13, and be on hand early, in order to get the best selection of delicious foods.

H. S. Hoopsters Battle Damon And Montezuma

With three victories and one defeat obtained during their practice season, the high school basketeers travel to San Francisco this afternoon where they meet Damon in the first conference game of the season.

No information can be had on the strength of the city team since this is to be their first game. Last year Menlo defeated Damon easily 32-12, and 35-19.

Although Coach Hubbard has not announced his starting lineup it is expected that Haggard will start at center, Captain Clumeck at left forward, the other forward will be Saxe, Rauhut, or Michaels. The start guard combination will most likely be Briscoe and White.

On Saturday Menlo travels to the Los Gatos hills where they meet the Montezuma "Aztecs." In their first conference start the Montezuma quintet downed the San Rafael Military Academy "cadets" 21-16. In Norcross, the "Aztecs" have an "eagle eye" forward. In their last game he acocunted for eleven points.

If the Menlo cagers can stop Norcross from tallying too often, and at the same time score a few points for themselves, they should be able to come out on the long end of the score.

PHONE M. P. 4722
DR. J. ROSS HARDY
DENTIST
Examination Free
Artino Building Menlo Park

MADAM VEN DOHM
Card Reader, Palmist, Meidum
Hours 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.
Highway, Second House North of Valparaiso Avenue, Menlo Park

J. M. CASEY
VETERINARIAN
Maple avenue, S. side, 4th house right, Atherton
P. O. Box 131, Menlo Park
Office and Res. Phone 22241

Coach Pollard's Cubs Defeat Tamalpais 32-8

The Menlo feather-weights outclassed the Tamalpais cubs to the score of 32-8 in a conference game last Saturday afternoon on the Tamalpais court. Roos played a great game, making 16 out of the 32 points for the blue and gold cagers. Fidanque, also, played his usual game.

Subs Used

Coach "Sparky" Pollar put in his reserves in the second period after his starting first string had run up a safe score. The second string were substituted by every man on the team during the course of the game, but still the Tamalpais quintet was out played. It was not until the last period that the first string appeared on the court again.

The starting lineup was: Roos, right forward; Davis, center; Miner, left forward; Fidanque, right guard; Leonard, left guard.

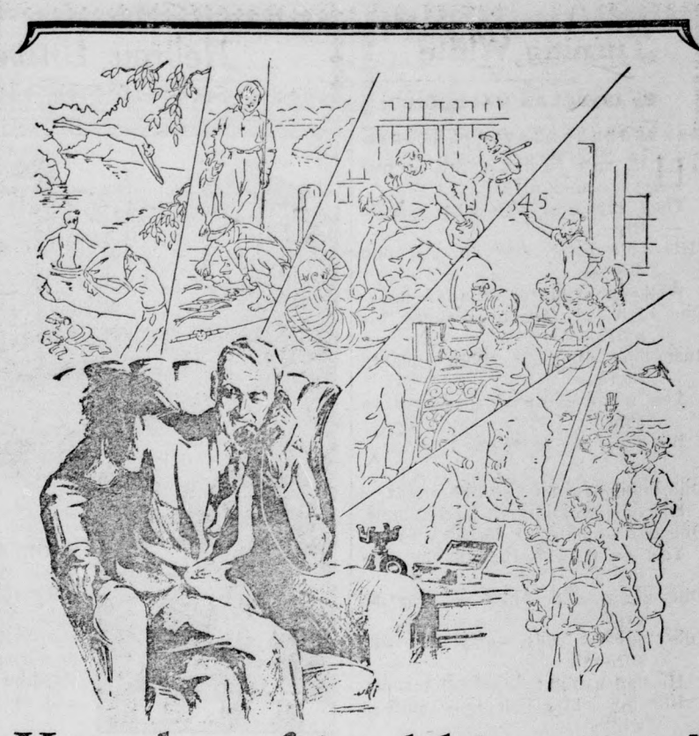

The blue and gold babes will play Montezuma at Montezuma on Saturday at 1 P. M.

Menlo Cubs Beaten By Palo Alto High School

The Palo Alto dimes defeated the Menlo paperweights 17 to 4 on the Menlo court Tuesday, January 12.

The Paly defense was too much for the Cubs who couldn't find the basket and their shooting ability was superior.

Wilkes played an outstanding floor game for Menlo. The starting lineup and points made were: Fidanque, right guard, 2 points; Leonard, left guard, 0 points; Davis, center, 2 points; Roos, right forward, 0 points; Miner, left forward, 0 points. Substitutions were: Wilkes, 0 points for Roos, Roos for Miner and Rohlfs 0 points for Leonard.

Keep those friendships green!

"I hadn't seen Jack Shepard since we were boys together. But last night I called him up. I can tell you the 'voice-visit' did us both a lot of good."

It's easy to place an inter-city call.

THE PACIFIC TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Business Office: 529 Bryant Phone Palo Alto 3101

Real Service

Every business has its ideals and ambitions; its personnel, products and methods of sale.

Printing is the art of bringing together these three elements in one harmonious, compact, representative whole.

Your printing should express the advantage there is in specialized skill, for good printing, like a good man, will live long to the ends of usefulness and . . . Service.

Menlo Park Recorder
1125 Highway
Phone 3872

Turning White

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

"HIS hair turned white in just one night,"
They say, and sigh with sympathy.
"His hair grew gray in just one day"—
Well, he is better off than me.
One night of trouble changed his hair;
Just look at mine, there's plenty there,
Yes, white and gray they seem to run,
But I got my hairs one by one.

One night of grief and like a leaf
His hair was altered in its shade.
One day of pain, or sorrow's rain,
Yes, so it was the change was made.
One night, and white or gray he grew,
One joyless day, and he was through.
He had a night he couldn't smile,
But my white hair took quite a while.

See this one here? That took a year
Of trouble when the times were bad.
See that one there? I got that hair
With months of worry that I had.
If sympathetic you must be,
Then why not sympathize with me?
Some get them suddenly, but I'm
Still getting mine—one at a time.

(©, 1932, Douglas Malloch.)—WNU Service.

Hebrew University on Mount Scopus Needs Help

FOR more than ten years the Hebrew university on Mount Scopus, in Palestine, has been struggling for its existence, and now, especially, it needs help. The depression throughout the world has cost the institution much of the support it would receive in normal times. Our illustration shows the Science building of the university and part of the campus, and at the right Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor.

Bedtime Story by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER FINDS SOME STRANGE TRACKS

PETER says that habits always make him think of burrs—they stick and are mighty hard to get rid of. Of course there are some kinds of habits you don't want to get rid of—good habits. Then there are some habits which are neither good nor bad, and it doesn't really matter whether or not you get rid of them. Lastly, there are bad habits, the kind you DO want to get rid of as quickly as possible, and these stick tighter than either of the others. They never shake off; they have to be pulled off or cut off.

Now one of Peter Rabbit's habits is to run in circles, a perfectly harmless habit usually, and yet one which sometimes gets him into trouble. You see hunters know of this habit, and when they have set a dog to chasing Peter they just stand near where they first started Peter, knowing that sooner or later he is almost sure to come back there and give them a chance to shoot at him. Peter has run in circles that way so much that he seldom thinks anything about it. So it was not surprising that he ran about in the Green Forest this moonlit night, looking for tracks of his neighbors, that he should gradually make a circle, and so come upon his own tracks made when he first started out.

"Huh!" He Chuckled. "Here I Am Chasing Myself."

At first he didn't know that they were his own, and started to follow them. Then, happening to look back at the footprints he had just made, he suddenly realized that they were exactly like the ones he was following. Peter can always see a joke, even if it is on himself. "Huh!" he chuckled. "Here I am chasing myself! I am afraid it would be a long, long chase to catch up. I guess I'll run over to the pond of Paddy the Beaver and see what I can find there. Hello!"

Peter sat up very straight and stared straight ahead at the tracks he had made earlier in the evening. His eyes were round with surprise and then a troubled look crept over them. Somebody had been following him just as he had followed others! There were the tracks plain to see. Who could have made them? Peter hurried for a closer view of them. But this told him nothing. He never had seen any like them before, and so of course couldn't tell who had made them. Hastily he looked around and saw where the tracks had joined his own. They came from the direction of an old brush pile, and when they reached his own turned and followed his. It was quite clear that whoever made them had been going in another direction until he came on Peter's tracks. Then he had at once turned to look for Peter. Was it some one who, like himself, was following the tracks of his neighbors just out of idle curiosity, or was it an enemy? With all his heart Peter wished he knew. One thing was very plain to see, and that was that whoever was following him had found his tracks, and Peter didn't like that. It made him uneasy.

What should he do? He didn't dare sit still and he didn't know where to go. Suddenly he thought of a plan. Perhaps if he followed those tracks back before they joined his own he might learn something. Peter wasted no more time. He hurried along that back track straight to the brush pile. The tracks went all around it and in and out under it. Peter didn't like that a bit. He was beginning to get suspicious. Then he found where the tracks had first come to the brush pile from the direction of an old fallen log. He hurried over to this. The tracks were all around and over the log. Whoever had made them had peeped into every hole, no matter how small. Then Peter knew.

"It's Shadow the Weasel!" he cried with a frightened gasp. "No one but Shadow would look into every hole this way and run all around and in and out of the brush pile. It's Shadow the Weasel, and now he's after me! Oh, what shall I do?"

(©, 1932, by J. G. Lloyd.)—WNU Service.

"If my baby doesn't make his mark in the world," says housekeeping Honorah, "it won't be because he hasn't practiced a lot on the wall paper."

(©, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Your Home and You

By Betsy Callister

JUST ONIONS

THERE is hardly any menu in which onions in some form or other may not be included.

Raw onions — sometimes called scallions—make an appetizer liked by many, and a little onion is usually added to vegetable salads. Onion juice or minced onion is usually added to every sort of made-over menu dish or to dishes of ground raw meat. Vegetable soup and most stock soups have a bit of onion flavor and many persons think that a little onion flavor improves cream vegetable soups of various sorts.

In using onions in meat dishes, croquettes, timbales and the like as well as in savory fish dishes many persons like the flavor best if the onion is fried in butter or drippings instead of adding raw. When this is done care should be taken that the minced onion is kept from becoming really brown. It should be fried only to a golden brown. The onion and butter or dripping are then added to the meat mixture. For a very delicate onion flavor a recipe sometimes stipulates that slices of onion be fried in butter and then removed and thrown away while the butter with the suspicion of onion flavor is all that is used.

For grated onion it is best to keep a grater used for no other purpose. For emergency purposes a little onion salt, similar to celery salt, is worth having on hand, by way of adding flavor to soup, made-over meat or a sandwich when there is no time to go to the usual pains of extracting the juice of an onion.

Creamed onions are regarded as a suitable accompaniment to a fish dinner and the menu with roasted chicken or turkey is not considered complete without creamed or baked onion of some sort. Fried onions are a time-honored favorite with beefsteak and many persons like them with calves' liver.

(©, 1932, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(WNU Service)

Mother's Cook Book

EVENING SANDWICHES

WHAT can be more appealing to the appetite of a cool night than hot, appetizing sandwiches. They may be made as dainty as an afternoon tea sandwich or as substantial as a main dish.

Mock Crab Sandwich.

To one-half cupful of grated cheese add one-fourth cupful of creamed butter, one-half teaspoonful of made mustard, two teaspoonfuls of anchovy paste, a few drops of lemon juice and a tablespoonful of chopped olives. Spread on slices of toasted bread and place in the oven until very hot. Garnish with pastry and narrow strips of canned sweet pimientoes. Serve with celery.

Grilled Sardines.

Toast in a broiler or in a hot frying pan a dozen or more sardines. Melt butter in the frying pan, stir in a little flour and moisten with hot water, then add a bit of vinegar, a dash of mustard, salt and pepper, and pour over the sardines; serve on toast.

Prune Sandwich, Fried.

Cook prunes after soaking well, pour off the sirup, stone, put through the food chopper and add sugar and cinnamon to taste. Cut the crust off of sandwich bread, slice thin and spread with the mixture and cover with another slice. Dip the sandwiches in a plain pancake batter and fry like french toast or in deep fat. These make a delightful breakfast toast.

Hot Egg Sandwich.

Cook six eggs in the shell until hard, remove the shells and chop fine. Add pepper and salt and a teaspoonful each of chopped parsley and capers, a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of cornstarch mixed in four tablespoonfuls of light cream. Cook until slightly thickened. Have ready slices of buttered and toasted bread on hot plates, fill the sandwiches and cover with the eggs and drawn butter or cream sauce. Garnish with sprigs of parsley. Add half a teaspoonful of curry powder to the creamed mixture if desired.

(©, 1932, Western Newspaper Union.)

LOOK OUT!

Counterfeit Aspirin!

THOUSANDS of boxes of counterfeit aspirin have been put on the market. Watch out. Take no chances and flatly refuse to accept any box not marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." Don't put any tablet not marked "Bayer" in your stomach. Tell your family and your friends of this. Refuse any preparation offered you as the "same" or "like" Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Demand and accept only this box, this "Bayer" marked tablet

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Cashew Not a Nut

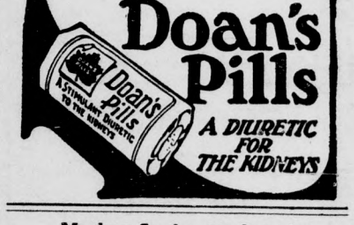

Comparatively unknown a few years ago, the cashew nut now rivals the walnut and pecan in popularity and may be bought in almost any drug or grocery store. Last year this country consumed more than 5,000,000 pounds of cashews. The cashew "nut" is not really a nut, says T. Ralph Robinson, of the United States Department of Agriculture, but the seed of a fleshy fruit borne in clusters on a large evergreen tropical tree. Curiously, the seed is attached to the outside, at the lower end of the fruit. The cashew tree thrives in Porto Rico and other West Indian islands, and a few trees have fruited in Florida.

When Rest Is Broken

Act Promptly When Bladder Irregularities Disturb Sleep

Are you bothered with bladder irregularities; burning, scanty or too frequent passage and getting up at night? Heed promptly these symptoms. They may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition. Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. Recommended for 50 years. Sold everywhere.

Doan's Pills

A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS

Mother Snake on Guard

A Florida rattlesnake guarding her young in the reptile house of the New York zoological park aroused much interest. When the keeper approached and touched the gate of the cage the mother came shooting out of a corner to see what was going on. Even snakes are capable of individual characteristics it seems for in all his thirty-two years dealing with them Mr. Toomy, the keeper, never saw one act as this one did

Kit Carson Memento

The words "Kit Carson, 1848," were recently found carved into a tree near Mud lakes, in the Eldorado National forest. The historical discovery was made by a United States forest service trail crew. Six inches of new wood had grown over the original blaze. Another tree carved by the famous pioneer is still standing in the Kit Carson pass.

Sh-h!!

"Didn't I tell you not to interrupt me when I had something important on hand?"

"How was I to know?" asked the deferential secretary. "You didn't have on your golf clothes."—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

Pleasant incidents of history do not fill so many pages as the distressing ones.

KILL COLD GERMS

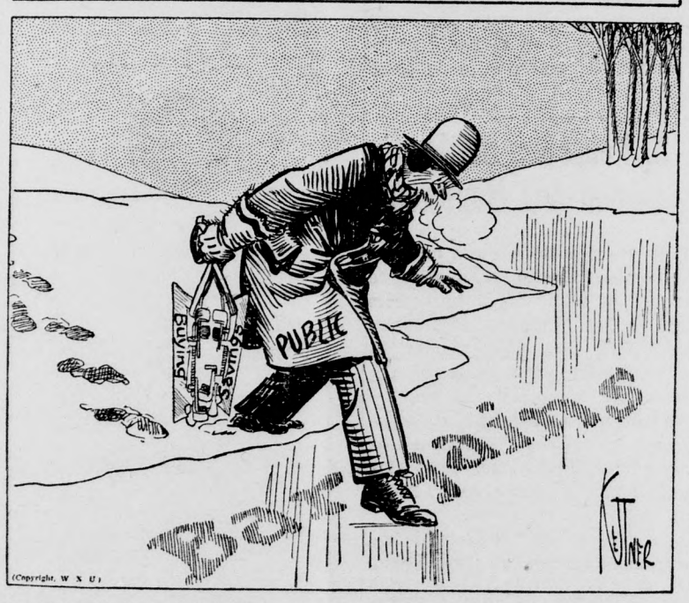

NAVAP

NASAL VAPOR

Clears head instantly. Stops cold spreading. Sprinkle your handkerchief during the day —your pillow at night.

A McKESSON PRODUCT 50¢ AT ALL DRUG STORES

Cautious

KITTY McKAY

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

The girl-friend says the most far-sighted man she ever knew got a judgment against an insurance man and took it out in trade.

(©, Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.

Chicago Complex

A certain family from Chicago were visiting at a Virginia farm not many miles from Washington. It was their first night there. "I'll wake you up in time to feed the chickens," said the fond mother in bidding her youngest good night. Bright and early the next morning that parent awoke to find her young hopeful sitting up in bed, rubbing his eyes. "Muvver," he called over to her, "what time do the chickens det up?"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Forgotten Meanings

"Politics" is defined by Webster as "the art of science of government." What a blessing it would be if we could use it in that sense and be understood.—Los Angeles Times.

Not Really Steel Jackets

There are no steel-jacketed bullets made in the United States. In Europe there are some cartridges made which have steel (really soft iron) jackets, with a thin wash of cupro nickel. Most bullets called steel jacketed in the United States are made with a cupro nickel alloy jacket.

Britain's Greatest War Monument

VIEW of the gigantic memorial to British heroes of the World war, which is rapidly nearing completion at Thiepval in the Somme. The monument will bear the names, rank and regiments of 73,367 World war heroes and commands a fine view of battlefields of the Somme. The prince of Wales and a distinguished group of fellow Britons will take part in the dedication of this, Britain's greatest monument to her soldier dead.

Mississippian Pays Taxes With Nuts

UNABLE to send cash to cover taxes on land that he owns in Detroit, Lorenz Sauer, a native of Mississippi, sent along 500 pounds of pecans from his own orchard. The city treasurer managed to sell the nuts in five-pound bags for $150, leaving a surplus of $15 to return to Sauer after the taxes and freight charges had been paid. Here is one of the clerks weighing the nuts for sale.

DISTINCTIVE RADIO PROGRAMS

On Your Radio
"FRIENDSHIP TOWN"
FRIDAY, 6:00 P. M., P.S.T.
NBC Coast to Coast Network
Vaseline
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
PREPARATIONS

Second Educational Series of Radio Lectures Started

Authorities on economics, psychology and other subjects have inaugurated the second series of "Listen and Learn" Lectures under the auspices of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, over coast-to-coast networks.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, started the spring series in January when he had representatives of the Council outlined the lecture courses to follow. The programs are heard every Saturday over NBC-WEAF facilities.

The series is scheduled for twenty weeks, closing with a valedictory program the last week in May.

Among the Speakers.

International trade, the tariff and industrial planning are economic subjects to be touched upon by speakers such as James Harvey Rogers of Yale, Ernest M. Patterson of Pennsylvania, F. W. Taussig of Harvard, George Henry Soule, Jr., editor of The New Republic, and Walton H. Hamilton of Yale.

Changes and growth in personalities, animal behavior and phychology in education are topics to be taken up by Fred A. Moss of George Washington University, Henry W. Nissen of Yale, Frank N. Freeman of Chicago, and others.

Public response to the initial ten lectures broadcast in the fall indicated, according to the Council, that they reached listening groups in the home, school, special neighborhood gatherings and even fishermen of Nova Scotia.

PATRIOTIC SONGS

The songs that thrill Americans, patriotic selections written by inspired composers, will be played in the February National 4-H club program of the National Farm and Home Hour by the United States Marine Band.

The concert will be another program in the series by the Marine Band on "Learning to Know America's Music."

Beginning with "The Star-Spangled Banner," the renditions will swing through "America," and the lively strains of "Dixie." These will be followed with "Yankee Doodle," "America the Beautiful," "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," "Hail Columbia," and a more recent song written when the United States Army was moving to the European battle front, "Over There."

The programs are designed to acquaint and familiarize the 850,000 4-H club members of the United States with the music which is typical of America.

Each month an additional concert will be provided by the Marine Band On March 5 America's hymns and religious songs will be featured. The programs are broadcast over a coast-to-coast network.

The series, which promises to be one of the most entertaining features of the National Farm and Home Hour during the winter months, will contain much basic forestry information of interest to both town and country listeners.

* * *

Carveth Wells, adventurer, explorer and lecturer, who starts a new series of programs over an NBC network next month under the title "Conoco Adventurers," says that if all the hogs in Texas were rolled into one hog, they, or it, could root out a Panama Canal with ease and dispatch.

* * *

In presenting Organ Melodies, Irma Glen has the three-fold job of speaking the verse while she plays the organ with feet and hands, and watches the music, prose, and stop watch.

* * *

Harvey Hays, well known to radio listeners for his interpretations of outdoor roles, will play the part of the forest ranger. Wise in the ways of forest uses and protection through long experience in the fields, the character will often find himself in amusing situations with his sub assistant whose eagerness sometimes overwhelms his better judgment.

* * *

Alfred Corn, who plays the part of Sammy in The Goldbergs' NBC daily feature, is nearing his sixteenth birthday, and is a student in high standing at the Art Students' League

WHO WAS WHO?

By Louise M. Comstock

FRANKIE AND JOHNNY

"FRANKIE and Johnny were lovers" goes a familiar song, and few of its many singers perhaps know that Frankie and Johnny were real lovers, who lived in the negro section of St. Louis not so long ago, and that Frankie is still alive, a thick-set colored woman, now fifty-nine years old, with graying hair and a razor scar received some forty years ago across one cheek.

Frankie herself is not prone to discuss how she "got her man who done her wrong," but the facts of the case may be dug up out of various police, morgue and hospital records and shaped into a readable if sordid tale. Allen Britt, later Albert and still later Johnny, came to St. Louis with his parents in 1891, and there, at an Orange Blossom ball met Frankie Baker, handsome, but ten years his senior, and formed for her his fatal attachment.

One night Frankie found Johnny in the ill-lighted hallway of the Phoenix hotel lavishingly on a pretty negress named Alice Pryor the attentions she claimed exclusively as her own, took him home, and as the climax of a violent quarrel which lasted all night shot him with his own gun just as he was advancing on her with a drawn knife. Fatally wounded, Johnny staggered to his own home where his father called the police and his mother an ambulance to take him to the hospital. He died four days later and his funeral was a gala affair, well attended. Almost immediately after, the wretched affair was being celebrated in song, and Frankie, freed of the toils of the law, bore herself with the pride of a wrong well avenged.

* * *

THE BAREFOOT BOY

POSING before the camera barefoot and with "turned-up pantaloons" just to make the matter conclusive, a retired Lutheran preacher of Nebraska, recently got his name and his picture in the papers as the original Barefoot Boy who inspired the American poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, to write his well-known praises of carefree boyhood out in the country. An examination of the details of his life, however, and the circumstances under which Whittier wrote his poem, lead to the conclusion that the Nebraskan and the barefoot boy could not have been one and the same person

This preacher states that he came to America from the old country in 1862. Whittier is known to have written "The Barefoot Boy" while he was editing the Middlesex Standard at Lowell, Mass., and to have taken his theme from seeing a boy there starting out to his day's work in the field, rake over shoulder. It is a matter of record that Whittier edited the Middlesex Standard for six months, starting in the fall of 1845, nearly twenty years before the preacher ever saw the shores of this country. Is it not more logical, and more pleasing, to suppose that Whittier's model is the very spirit of boyhood itself, viewing the world through unspoiled eyes.

* * *

PRINCE CHARMING

NO, LADIES have never actually worn glass slippers. But the Cinderella theme, the story of the downtrodden heroine to whom at last has come a Prince Charming and bliss forever, has become so deeply imbedded in our literature, that we are scarcely surprised to find it founded on a real happening.

About 1730 a talented and wealthy French actor, named Thevenard, then a man over sixty, wandering about the streets of Paris, observed upon a cobbler's stall awaiting repair a woman's slipper. So dainty was it, and of such grace, that Thevenard was struck with admiration and curiosity about its owner, and a sort of fascination which would not leave him. Unable to free himself from his uncanny interest, he at length returned to the cobbler's stall, but could gain from him no clew as to the slipper's owner.

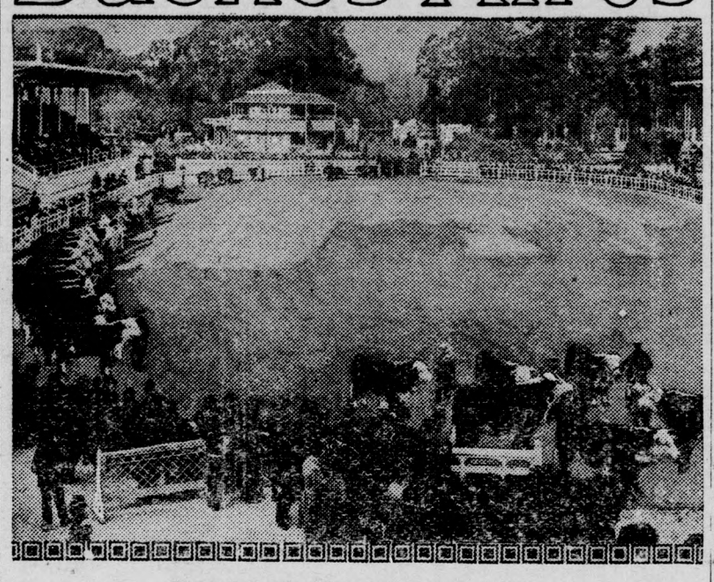

Days passed, and that worn little slipper became an obsession with the great man. Again and again, irritated by his own folly but unable to do otherwise, he returned to the stall and watched the cobbler as he worked upon the tiny shoe, always hoping in vain that the owner would appear. She appeared only when the shoe was done, and proved to be a charming girl enough, but of the poorest and humblest class. But since this was a real fairy tale, that made not the slightest difference, and this Prince Charming and his Cinderella were married and lived happily ever after.

(©, 1932, Western Newspaper Union.)

Tragic Blunder

The greatest blunder of all time probably occurred on the day when the first of our prehistoric ancestors discovered that by making certain grunts and wheezes he could impart his own ideas to some of the more intelligent among his neighbors.—Hendrik Willen Van Loon.

Buenos Aires

Annual Cattle Show of Buenos Aires.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)
(WNU Service)

THE world's largest market is planned for a five-block tract in Buenos Aires, Argentina. The market will have access to all railroads entering the city and also direct communication, by tunnel, with the city's port.

No city in the United States is so important to us as Buenos Aires is to Argentina. It handles four-fifths of all Argentina's trade, and houses 20 per cent of all the nation's 10,000,000 inhabitants. All its 2,000,000 people are either Europeans or of European descent. This is true of only one other Latin-American city—Montevideo.

Three times as big as Spain's largest city, modern Buenos Aires—as expanded and rebuilt in the last 30 years—is conspicuous in all the world for its magic growth.

The whole 25,000-mile railway system of Argentina has its focus here—the finest railroads in South America. No great motor highways radiate from the city, because the vast pampas afford no road-making materials. But by rail and river Buenos Aires handles more than half as much freight as the port of New York, and the net tonnage of ships calling each year is equal to all that passes through the Panama canal.

Not trade alone makes it great. Its social, artistic and political attractions rank it among the world's most dazzling capitals. To it flock the rich, the influential, the intelligentsia of all Argentina. "Our country as a whole would develop faster," said one prominent banker, "if more of our best brains would stay in the provinces."

Stock Farms Are Enormous.

Yet, although so many land owners live in the city, the swift, prodigious growth of herds and farming on the vast campos is an economic phenomena in this comparatively new country. In Europe the Argentine visitor is noted among hotels, resorts and shop keepers for the freedom with which he spends money. These immense incomes are mostly from the soil.

One Estancia in Santa Fe province runs 50,000 cattle, and boasts of prize bulls costing $10,000 each and upwards. There are 25,000 hogs, 1,200 horses, a creamery making 4,000 pounds of butter daily for export to England; a private telephone system, a rambling chalet set in an artificial forest of imported trees, swimming pools, tennis courts—a princely estate that would make even a Texas cattle king dumb with astonishment. Similar ranches lie near Buenos Aires; others are far away, on the pampas. Their number, size, and money-making organization amazes the tourist—with school-book memories of woodcuts showing a hard-riding gaucho swinging a three-balled lasso over his head and chasing a longhorn steer—or an ostrich.

Nature is kind to Buenos Aires. Up the Parana are the majestic falls of Iguazu, and Guayra, solemn and stupendous, ranking with Niagara and Victoria in Africa. Up the Andes and under the shadow of Aconcagua—highest mountain in the Western world—runs a cogwheel railway that lifts you in a few hours from green plains to Alpine heights and snowdrifts 20 feet deep, where Argentine soldiers train on skis. Winter hotels are here now—a new St. Moritz. And there is ancient Cordoba, historic Tucuman, the famous baths of Rosario.

And as melons and oranges rush to our East from California and Florida, so Argentina's fruits flow into Buenos Aires. It lives well. Whole trainloads of fresh grapes come from the famed vineyards of Mendoza—and many reach our own markets.

American Investments Heavy.

Mutual trade has brought huge American investments to Buenos Aires, notably in packing houses, public utilities and banks. Two Yankee concerns alone control more than 100 light and power units in Argentina. Here, too, you see the new policy of great American corporations applied, by which now their Argentine employees are encouraged to become stockholders.

Youth, vitality, sheer enjoyment of living, they are the attributes of Buenos Aires. Shiny new motor cars; fascinating, Paris-like shop windows; arc lights glaring on well-dressed midnight crowds in brilliant Calle Florida; cafes, casinos, high-priced restaurants and hotels, all packed with chattering, laughing people. Endless places of amusement, including the great Grecian Colon theater; and, on billboards, many names familiar to Broadway: Titta Schipa, Chaliapin, Spinelli, Mistinguette. "Pelliculas Parlantes," they call the "talkies."

And still it grows. Here lands the immigrant stream. Bearded men in boots, carrying bundles; wondering boys and girls, chattering in strange Slav or Latin tongues; bewildered mothers, their heads wrapped in shawls, hard-handed women bent from work, carrying babies and still more bundles—you see them all come slowly down gangplanks from European ships to stand a bit on the busy wharf and stare at Buenos Aires.

Argentina needs these. She has one-third as much land as the United States; but only as many people as live in and about New York city. Or about one and one-third per square mile, as against 490 in the British Isles.

Italians, English, Spanish, French, Germans, Swiss, American, all mingle. So cosmopolitan is the city that its great papers—La Nacion and La Prensa—must serve news from everywhere. Their circulation is enormous; their advertising huge. The quality, completeness and accuracy of what they print challenges the thought of every visiting journalist. Their absorbing Sunday rotogravures, their feature articles on sport, travel, international affairs, science, literature and art—many by world famous writers—astonish the newcomer, at first. Then he reflects; this is a great world city. It thinks like any other; and acts as Paris does, or Berlin, or New York.

Modern but Exotic.

Italian workmen with power drills tear up good pavements. New buildings rise higher and higher. Air students stunt at Palomar field, and Yankee free-lance flyers come peddling new planes. A man in fancy gaucho dress, as obsolete now as old time wild west cowboy gear, coils a live snake about his neck and hawks patent medicines. A communist tries to harangue a crowd, and police lead him amiably away. Children ride tame llamas in the parks. A weazened little man struggles through traffic with a huge basket of coconuts, and offers them to a world which seems to spurn coconuts.

Around the great Diagonal of the financial center grim, towering banks suggest Wall Street. Subways, long suburban trains, screaming newsboys, 50,000 football fans jammed before a loudspeaker on Avenida de Mayo—you see this a city—greatest in South America.

Its fog suggests San Francisco. Its flat expanse is like Chicago. The vast plains beyond, with endless leagues of corn, wheat and cattle, conjure up Kansas, or the Illinois prairies. And mules! Fat, with good harness, they compete with trucks. You see a team draw aside, to let a luxurious motor lorry pass hauling glistening race horses out to the track of the Tiajuana-like Jockey club. An unusual organization this is. Its downtown club-house, gorgeous as a senate chamber dominates all others.

A member may ask you to hunt partridges at a great estancia on the pampas. For many interesting hours a train hauls you past queer big cornerib shaped like tanks; wind mills; high-wheeled pampa wagons; endless riders in flat black hats, baggy breeches, short boots, flying ponchos, riding with short stirrups on clumsy saddles covered with sheep's wool.

Leagues of wire fence stretch far as the eye can see, and artificial groves of imported trees dot the pampas. You stop at a lonely prairie station—for all the world like Kansas west of Dodge City—where you are to hunt. Partridge are plentiful; so are ostriches.

Riding back to Buenos Aires you take the day coach, to hear cowmen talk. It is like riding, in old days, in the caboose of a cattle train from Texas up to Kansas City. Everybody talks herds, horses, fodder, calves, branding and market prices.

It's common sense

WHEN doctors all agree that your body needs Vitamins, it's common sense to see that you get them. Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil contains both Vitamins A and D in guaranteed potency. Vitamin A builds resistance to winter colds. Vitamin D aids growing children in the development of bones and teeth. This emulsion has no fishy flavor. Men and women find it a pleasing, palatable way of taking cod liver oil. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. Sales Representative, Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York.

LISTEN TO the Scott & Bowne radio program "Adventuring with Count von Luckner," on Sunday night at 6:30 p. m. over Stations KHJ Los Angeles, KOIN Portland, KFRC San Francisco, KOL Seattle, KVI Tacoma and KFPY Spokane

Scott's Emulsion
OF NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL

Drama in the Bedroom

Peewit—So your wife came to you on her knees last night?

Nitwit—Yes, and dared me to come out from under the bed.

Old Friends

"You have always been one of her best friends, haven't you?"

"Yes, I was maid of honor at all four of her weddings."

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

Easy to Tell Why

"Does your cigar lighter work?"

"No, I won it at a bridge party."—Chicago News.

Picked Up Somewhere

Bertie—You know, I got a bright idea out of a corner of my brain.

Gertie—Ah, ha, a stowaway!

RELIEVES HEAD, CHEST and BACK COLDS
McKesson's ALBATUM 35¢
Stainless "Rub In" and inhalant unsurpassed in preventing and relieving cold congestions
QUALITY SINCE 1833 — McKESSON & ROBBINS — SOLD AT ALL DRUG STORES

If you feel sympathy, say so and act so. This is one of the virtues often concealed.

The poor man accumulates a family; and he ought to be honored. We need families.

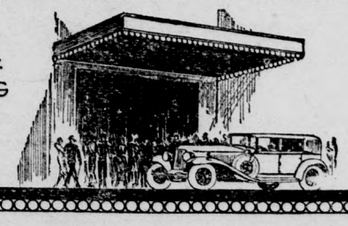

CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

Quickly Heal Rashes, Eczema and All Forms of Itching, Burning Skin Irritations.

Bathe with the Soap, anoint with the Ointment. Relief comes at once and healing soon follows.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c. and 50c. Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Malden, Mass.

THE VERY CENTRE OF EVERYTHING

ALEXANDRIA HOTEL
INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS
RATES
SINGLE WITH BATH $2.50 TO $8.
DOUBLE WITH BATH $4. TO $9.
ATTRACTIVE WEEKLY, MONTHLY AND RESIDENTIAL RATES
The Alexandria Hotel is an affiliated unit of the Eppley Hotel Co's 22 Hotels in the middle west, Louisville, Ky. and Pittsburgh, Pa. and the Hamilton chain of Hotels in California.....
E. C. EPPLEY, President — CHARLES B. HAMILTON, Vice-President & Managing Director
CORNER OF FIFTH AND SPRING STREETS
LOS ANGELES
CHICAGO OFFICE 520 No. Michigan Ave. · Suite 422 · Phone-Superior 4416

Thrift Becomes Attractive If Tried As Girl Scout Game

Practicing thrift, which is the ninth of the Girl Scout laws, can be a fascinating game, when one knows the rules and sticks to them. Thousands of Girl Scouts, as their contribution to the celebration of National Thrift Week, January 17-23, will call on their local banks for help in drawing up a thrift program for the ensuing year.

NOTICE OF FILING ASSESSMENT AND OF TIME OF HEARING
No. 31—6

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that heretofore on Thursday the 14th day of January, 1932, there was filed with the undersigned City Clerk of the City of Menlo Park an assessment to cover the sum due for the work performed and improvement made by C. W. Wood, contractor, under and in pursuance of the provisions of the "Improvement Act of 1911, of the State of California, and reference is hereby made to Resolution of Intention No. 31—6 of the City Council of said City, passed July 9th, 1931, for the description of said work and improvement, and of the district to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, said assessment being made in conformity with the provisions of said "Improvement Act of 1911" according to the character of the work done.

Said assessment shows the amount to be paid on said contract for the work contracted and performed, together with all incidental expenses, the amount of each assessment against each lot or portion of a lot, the number of each lot or portion or portions of a lot so assessed, and has attached thereto a diagram exhibiting each street and street crossing, lane, alley, place or court, property, or right of way on which any work has been done, showing the relative location of each lot or portion of lot, to the work done, numbered to correspond with the numbers of the assessments.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that TUESDAY the second (2nd) day of FEBRUARY, 1932, at the hour of Eight (8:00) o'clock P. M. is the time fixed by the undersigned clerk when all persons interested in the work done or in the assessment may appear at the City Hall at 1080 El Camino Real in said city and be heard by the City Council.

The owners, the contractor, or his assigns, and all other persons interested in said work or in the assessment, feeling agrieved by any act or determination of the Superintendent of Streets or City Engineer in relation thereto or who claim that the work has not been performed according to the contract in a good and substantial manner, or who claim that any portion of the work for any reason was omitted or illegally included in the contract for the same, or having or making any objections to the correctness of the assessment or diagram or other act, determination or proceedings of the Superintendent of Streets or City Engineer, shall prior to the said day fixed for said hearing, appeal to the City Council by briefly stating in writing the grounds of appeal.

Notice is hereby given that serial bonds to represent unpaid assessments, and bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum, will be issued hereunder in the manner provided by the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, the last installment of which bonds shall mature nine years from the second day of July next succeeding ten months from their date.

Dated July 14th, 1932.

FANNIE I. KURTZ,
City Clerk of the City of Menlo Park.

First publication in Menlo Park Recorder January 15th, 1932, last publication January 22d, 1932.

CHUCKHOLES CAUSE OF FREAK ACCIDENT

Chuckholes in the state highway at Atherton are blamed for a freak automobile crash in which four persons narrowly escaped injury late Saturday night.

L. H. Lottridge, 43, of 136 Second avenue, San Mateo, was driving north when his car tsruck a chuckhole at the east edge of the highway near Loyola avenue. Attempting to avoid entanglement with southbound traffic as his car was jarred toward the middle of the highway, Lottridge turned his wheels sharply and lost control of his machine, which upset at the side of the highway according to his report to the Atherton police.

Neither Lottridge nor any of his three passengers were hurt in the accident.

—o—

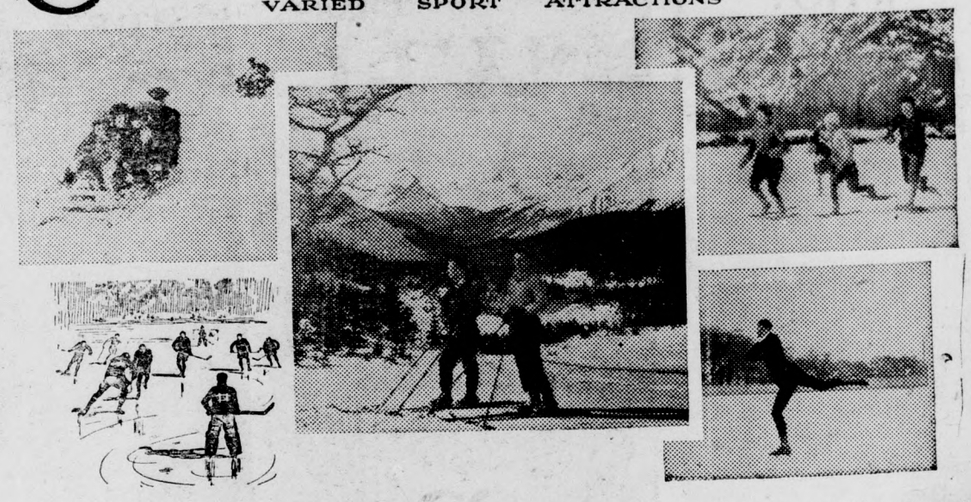

James Beardsley, well known in this city where he has lived for a long time, and formerly conducted a printing office, will leave shortly on a tour of the United States in a Chevrolet truck which he has converted into palce on wheels. Jim has done the work himself and nothing is lacking, from kitchen to living room. He expects to return here in the fall.

All six of the gradutes of the Ravenswood School who received their diplomas last Friday are enrolled at the Sequoia Union High School at Redwood City. They are Dorothy Gile, Shirley Harper, Dorothy Boyer, Lillian Harper, Lyndon Peterson, and Russell Kellett.

Palo Alto (UP)—A skunk played the finale to a dance attended by 150 Stanford University couples at Branner hall. In 3 minutes after it appeared the dance floor was emptied.

The advertisements of J. E. Bracesco and Christensen and Anderson, in connection with the fuel advertising of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will be found on page four of this issue.

CANADA The WINTER PLAYGROUND
VARIED SPORT ATTRACTIONS

Skiing—Thrilling and Popular

In the hilly districts and where the country is more open, skiing is the most popular sport and thousands of persons are to be seen enjoying that exciting pastime, on almost any winter day. It is not essential that one be expert to indulge in this form of amusement, for the countryside, apart from its steep inclines and exciting curves, affords ample provision for the novice, through its gradual slopes. In many parts of the country ski clubs have been formed by enthusiastic followers of the sport and many well marked trails have been established. Cabins with wood-stoves, where skiers may rest and prepare hot refreshment have been erected by such clubs, along the leading trails. In several Canadian cities annual ski-jumping competitions are held, in which expert skiers from many countries participate. These competitions provide thrills for both the spectator and contestant.

Tobogganing and Skating

Both natural and specially constructed toboggan slides are available in almost every district. While some provide for an extremely rapid descent and others more gradual, this sport can be enjoyed by anyone, without danger. Ample opportunity is afforded the skater to indulge in his favourite winter pastime, for nature has provided vast sheets of ice on the lakes and rivers, while municipal open-air rinks are maintained by a great number of towns and cities. Indoor skating rinks, some of which are heated, have also been established, in many places.

Other Sports

Ice-boating, curling, and other forms of winter sport prevail in Canada and the visitor will find that his enjoyment in every line of winter activity has been well provided for. Hockey games, both professional and amateur, may be witnessed throughout the season. Many of the latter are held outdoors but the most outstanding are within sheltered and heated auditoriums.

Golf on the Pacific Coast

Owing to the varied climate of Victoria and Vancouver a wide range of sport not to be found in other parts of Canada is provided during the winter. While, at these points golf courses are in operation the year round, in a very few hours time, one may travel from the warm atmosphere of sea level, to the colder mountainous areas where the more typical Canadian winter sports prevail.

The National Development Bureau of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, Canada, has issued for free distribution a booklet entitled, "Winter in Canada" and will send a copy to those interested. The Bureau will also be glad to answer enquiries regarding any particular phase of Canada's winter attractions.

MILLIONS of residents of the United States who have visited Canada during the summer season have returned to their homes, after enjoying a pleasant sojourn. The increasing number of visitors entering that country each year indicates its growing popularity as a vacation land. It is not necessary however, that the vacationist should confine his visit to the spring, summer and fall seasons, for in Canada the winters are ideal for a great many lines of sport, such as skating, skiing and tobogganing, which are the more important outdoor pastimes, although there are numerous other forms of indoor winter sport.

Climate Beneficial to General Health

Well in advance of the arrival of the first snow Canada makes full preparation for its seasonal activities and from east to west clubs representing every form of winter recreation become active. Almost everywhere in Canada the vast outdoors becomes a great natural playground, healthful, invigorating and inviting, to both old and young. Owing to the frequent sunshine and dryness of the air even the coldest temperature is not unduly severe, which is contrary to the general belief that a Canadian winter is almost unbearable. As a consequence Canada's winter climate is regarded as beneficial to general health.

Snowshoeing Still Prevails

Many snowshoe clubs still exist throughout the Dominion, although the pastime has been largely supplanted by skiing. The snowshoe is chiefly used in the flat bushy country, where the underbrush is thick and skiing almost impractical.

YACHT CLUB MEMBERS ARE ACTIVELY PREPARING FOR BIG EVENTS THIS YEAR

Under the guidance of its new officers the Palo Alto Yacht Club is busily engaged in preparing for the best season in its history. The members who own boats and working on them in prepartion for the opening day. The boats are being cleaned and painted, engines and sails nd rigging overhauled, and crews made up.

The new officers of the club are as follows:

Commodore, Dave Clark.
Vice-Commodore, E. C. Thoits.
Port Captain, Harry Lusk.
Secretary, F. Miller.
Directors, G. F. Ferris, D. McLoughlin and Foree Chittenden.

Now that the new club house is finished the meetings are held there an d a library of yachting magazines is being made up by those who have them.

The yach basin of the club is one of the finest on the bay, and is being improved all the time. A good road leads from Palo Alto to the club house and basin and with all of these features in its favor the Palo Alto Yacht Club bids fail to be the most poular organization of its kind on the bay.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Bert J. Mehl are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born on Sunday, January 17. Mother and baby are doing well, and Bert has a smile that can't be rubbed off.

Mrs. Devol, head of the finance committee of the unemployment committee, reported that she has received from all sources the sum of $582.35. The expenditures have been $430.11, leaving a balance of $152.24 in her hands. The unemployed received $361, and $68 for food.

The Native Sons and Daughters of the local parlors will install officers jointly in the Masonic hall on Thursday evening, Janury 28th.

Miss Emily McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. McCarthy of this city, is enrolled as a student in the San Francisco College for Women.

NEAR AS YOUR

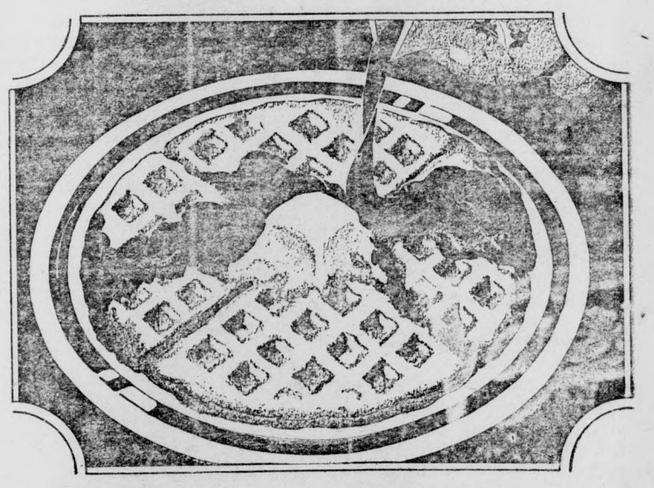

RADIO
SERVICE
GOOD USED TUBES
25c UP
New Sets $22.50
AUTO BATTERIES $5.45
541 High St.
P. A. 4213
Reed's ELECTRICITY

TREE SURGERY
AND SPRAYING
S. P. McClenahan
1935 Waverly Street
Palo Alto, Calif.
Phone 21741

Menlo Park Recorder
PRINTING—PUBLISHING
BLANK BOOK WORK
RUBBER STAMPS
SOCIETY PRINTING
Phone P. A. 3872

Plentiful Pineapple

AMERICA is one of the few and very fortunate countries in which pineapple is both cheap and extremely plentiful. The history of the pineapple associates it always with the tables of the great and wealthy. Only in America has it become an article of daily diet—a delicious delicacy within reach of even the most modest purse.

For Every Meal

There are many pleasant ways to use it at every meal, and between meals for beverages, candies and incidental snacks. Here is a recipe for pineapple waffles which has been tried and found exceptionally good. You know that the best pineapple comes from our Territory of Hawaii.

Pineapple Waffles: Beat three egg yolks well, and add one and one-fourth cups milk. Sift together two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt, and add to above. Next add six tablespoons melted butter and two-thirds cup drained crushed pineapple. Fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot waffle iron at table. The electric iron should be preheated ten minutes before making the first waffle. Serve with pineapple sauce and pass cubes of plain American cheese.

Pineapple Sauce: Simmer one cup crushed pineapple, one cup sugar, and three-fourths cup water until syrupy. Add three drops oil of peppermint. Cool to lukewarm and serve on waffles.*

Subscribe to your Home Town Paper !!
This Is It !

Patronize
Recorder Advertisers

ONE STOP GARAGE
EXPERIENCED MECHANICS - - REASONABLE PRICES
PALO ALTO GARAGE
PHIL MIEBACH, Prop.
440-442 EMERSON STREET
DE SOTO ---- PLYMOUTH
SALES and SERVICE
OFFICIAL GARAGE FOR NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE CLUB